BRITISH CHUTES RAID ITALY

ROME, Feb. 14 (AP)—An attack by British parachute troopers, apparently bent on destruction or crippling of great sources of electrical power in southern Italy and the drinking water supply of more than 2,500,000 Italians, was reported by the Italian high command today to have been shattered.

The British, in unspecified numbers, floated earthward at the foot of the Italian boot on the night of Feb. 10-11, armed to the limit of their buoyancy with machine-guns, hand grenades and dynamite, the Italians said.

Quick work by Italy's look-out service was said to have resulted in capture of all the parachutists "before they could cause the serious damage which they intended."

While the communique mentioned only "communications and waterworks" of the "Calabria-Lucania" region as the British objectives, it was supposed that these included two hydro-electric plants powering southern Italy's railways and the Apulian aqueduct, carrying water to an area populated by 2,677,000 persons.

ALL PILOTS CAPTURED

Two British planes fell Monday night or early Tuesday when bombing raids were made on towns in southern Italy. Three crewmen landed by parachute near Eboli and now are imprisoned at Naples. Two were found on a royal estate near Persano. Still another airman was picked up later. All apparently were from wrecked planes.

If these men were intended saboteurs it would seem that the British, on bombing flights over Italy, are equipped for demolition work and ground fighting in event they are forced to bail out from stricken planes. Otherwise, these captured airmen were distinct from the "nuclei" of parachutists reported by the high command to have been taken.—Editor's Note.

Foreign observers said that the British parachutists may have counted on hiding during the day after dropping in remote places and then making their way in darkness to their objectives, with little hope of escape after planting their dynamite.

The British were said to have clashed with guards of the Italian look-out service and in this clash a civilian police deputy and another civilian were killed, the daily communique said. The attempt was made by "nuclei of parachutists," the high command said.

FIGHT ON ITALIAN SOIL

The communique gave no hint as to the number of planes or men involved in the venture nor was it disclosed whether the British attempt differed in any respect from the highly successful German parachute invasions of the Lowlands. The clash which followed the landings was not described. It was the first exchange of shots between British and Italian troops on this country's soil.

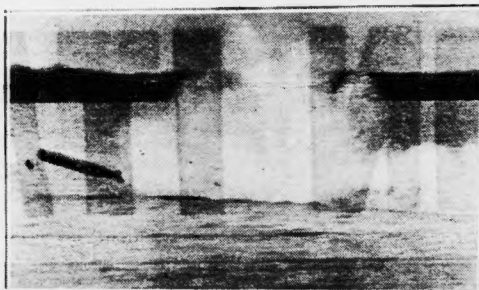

British military circles in London said they knew nothing about an attempted landing by parachute troops. These sources recalled that several times British pilots bailing out of planes in air fighting over Britain had caused reports there of attempted German parachute troop landings.—Editor's Note.

Hull War Quiz Asked In Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Sen. Wiley (R.) of Wisconsin suggested today that the Senate hold a "closed executive session" next week to receive from Secretary Hull and his assistants "a report on world conditions."

Wiley told the Senate there should be a "realistic appraisal of our whole American-British relations" in connection with the forthcoming debate on the Administration's aid-to-Britain bill.

Hull and his assistants, the senator said, should attend the proposed Senate executive session and their routine of world conditions should have especial reference to the Near and Far East, Wiley asked.

"Are Adolf Hitler and his associates, Japan and Mussolini, attempting another war of nerves or is there a synchronized co-ordinated movement in process whereby when Hitler opens his spring offensive in the Balkans, Japan will attempt some move against the British interests, and perhaps our interests, in the East?"

CALL GEN. MARSHALL

"We certainly know that there are big stakes in this war game," Wiley continued, "but if Japan should fall for the seductive influence of Adolf Hitler and commit an overt act along the lines I have suggested, then I tremble for the consequences."

"I want to know what our government knows about the situation. I want to know what kind of a supplemental air arm we have to our fleet in the East."

"If this situation is as grave as we might be led to believe it is, then it is all important for us to know the fact in contemplation of the long-range bill."

Earlier in the day the Senate Military Affairs Committee voted to call Gen. George C. Marshall,

BRITAIN BANS TRADE WITH RUMANIANS

LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Britain announced tonight she would regard Rumania as "territory under enemy occupation," beginning Saturday.

The Ministry of Economic Warfare said Rumania, where there are perhaps 600,000 German troops, would be regarded as an "enemy destination for contraband purposes."

This supplemented an earlier Board of Trade announcement which banned trading with Rumania under the provisions of the "trading with the enemy act."

The economic warfare minister's statement warned trader, all goods of Rumanian origin or ownership would be liable to seizure.

U. S. Joins Pressure Move To Halt Japs' Indo War Coup

By KINGSBURY SMITH

International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—The United States, Great Britain, Australia and the Netherlands East Indies have, it was learned today, engaged in one of the greatest "pressure" moves on Japan that has ever been made.

Carried out concurrently by the four governments, the move was designed to counteract German pressure on Japan to enter the war and strike at British and Dutch East Indies possessions.

Here is what they did:
Acting almost simultaneously, the United States had its consular authorities in China issue new "urgent" advices to American nationals to return home, the Australian government issued a statement that the war had entered a stage of the "utmost gravity" for Australia, Great Britain instructed its ambassador in Tokyo for Australia, Great Britain instructed the Japanese government of the mistake Mussolini made in entering the war, and the Netherlands East Indies government ordered its ships in the Pacific into neutral ports.

JAPS GIVE ASSURANCE

The concurrent move came as a shock to Tokyo, and American officials are hopeful the move has, for the time being at least, met with success. This hope is based on Tokyo dispatches quoting a Japanese spokesman as giving assurances Japan had no immediate intention of engaging in war in the Pacific.

The United States and Great Britain have been aware for some time that Germany was trying to persuade Japan to strike in the Far East. The question of offsetting this German pressure has been the subject of informal discussion between the United States, Great Britain, Australia and the Netherlands East Indies.

It was generally understood among the four governments, they would do what they could to offset this pressure whenever it appeared Japan might be succumbing to it.

WARNED OF NAZI PLAN

Yesterday's move was in accord with this understanding.

Word had been received several days ago that the Japanese were concentrating strong naval and air forces on Ido China and making new demands on the Netherlands East Indies. It was feared the Germans might have succeeded in

ELEANOR PERRIER, 12, HOLDING BROTHER, JOSEPH, 1, AND HELEN BAKER, 9
Rescued from Flaming Revere Home in Which Two Children Died

2 CHILDREN DIE IN REVERE FIRE; MOTHER NEAR DEATH IN HOSPITAL

With frantic rescuers only eight feet away, helpless, due to the searing heat, two small Revere sisters perished today in a fire which destroyed their home, while their mother suffered critical injuries and 11 other persons barely escaped with their lives.

The victims were Annette Perrier, 6, and her sister, Alice, 2, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Perrier of Garfield ave., Revere.

The mother, Mrs. Eleanor D. Perrier, 38, was reported dying at Massachusetts General Hospital of burns and cuts.

After one transfusion, when she failed to rally, a call was sent out for more blood donors. Patrolmen Maynard, Rogers, Max Freedman and John Roche of the Revere police dept. responded.

WALL OF FLAMES

Doctors described her condition as very grave and held little hope of her recovery.

Twice the heroic mother braved a wall of flames in attempts to save her family. Her thin night clothing was burned from her body and she collapsed after pushing four of her other children through windows to safety. Police pulled her from the fire and rushed her to the hospital, unconscious.

The Perrier children who escaped were Eleanor, 12; Mary, 10; William, 3, and Joseph, 15 months.

HEARS SCREAMS

On the second floor of the burning house was the family of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mellen and four children, all saved by the heroism of a neighbor, William Quinn, 19, of Avalon st., Revere, and three Revere police officers.

Coming upon the fire on his way home, Quinn heard screams of the children. Believing they were trapped upstairs, he raced to the rear of the house, broke in a back area door and fought his way through the smoke upstairs.

Catching up two of the Mellen children, he groped his way back

11 in Connolly Bribery Face Court Action

In a surprise move today, John Patrick Connolly, resigned superior civil court clerk now under sentence for soliciting and accepting gratuities from former employees, secured complaints in municipal court against 11 witnesses who helped convict him.

NAMED BY CONNOLLY—(L. to r.) Marguerite Kennedy, Gertrude Cotter and Martha Friel today were named in complaints by John Patrick Connolly.

There were 16 complaints against the 11 individuals, all of whom are still employed in the superior civil court clerk's office, whose present head is Thomas Dorgan.

Six of the complaints are against Miss Marguerite (Peg) Kennedy of Savin Hill ave., Dorchester, an employee for 22 years. Five charge her with soliciting bribes, and the other charges giving a bribe.

After the complaints were made out, however, they were held up by Court Clerk Charles Willock as the result of an irate complaint by the Boston Bar Association that it had not been notified.

Atty. Claude Cross and Lathrop Withington were despatched to the court by the Bar Ass'n after Judge Joseph Zottoli, acting chief justice of municipal court, had been communicated with and had arranged for the association's representatives to be heard.

JUDGE HOLDS PARLEY

As a result, Judge John Brackett called Atty. Cross and Withington, with Sergt. Michael Stapleton of Joy st. station and Court Clerk Harvey Hudson, into his lobby for a conference.

These other 10 persons are charged each in one count with giving a bribe:

Edward J. Kelley, Thomas F. Brophy, Mary M. Cunningham, Mary C. Brogie, Gertrude M. Cotter, Catherine R. Gibbons, Louise V. Crowley, Anna E. Pugh, John E. Noonan and Martha E. Friel.

All were government witnesses at the Connolly trial, Miss Kennedy

"I'M GOING TO LOSE 20 POUNDS"

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

If anyone wants to smirk about women and their concern about overweight, I am ready to defy the accuser, because more than half my mail, on this reducing series, has come from men.

Not, I must admit, that my mailbox has been bulging with proposals. Despite—or perhaps because of—the fact that my photograph has been appearing daily, there has been no rush of suitors for my hand and weekly stipend.

No, the gentlemen who have written me have all been interested in losing their bay windows. Many of them have already accomplished it, and have written to assure me that it is more than worth while, as if I didn't know it!

For instance, I have a letter today from the proprietor of a drug store away up in Maine. He says:

"Dear Mary: I have watched your diet carefully and the day after you started I decided to start. I am 29 and had gained a little too much weight for my height of 5 feet 10.

"I beat you. I weighed 205 and am now down to 185 pounds and you still have three pounds to go. However, I have you to thank for the idea and the incentive to do it—so thanks."

Well, my friend, I have to hand it to you. Losing 20 pounds takes will power. I should know. But you

Tag Drive Continues; 4700 Victims to Date

EVING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1941

While declaring there would be no letup in the drive against illegal parkers, Police Commr. Joseph F. Timilty today said that a total of 4700 cars had been tagged to date.

Latest to become victims of the implacable rookie squads were students, doctors and wealthy citizens who park their cars in the Back Bay area.

Students of Boston University were hardest hit, scores of them appearing with blue courtesy tags to complain that in many cases four, five, or even six students use one car to get to school from distant points and that they cannot afford to pay parking fees.

Doctors and their patients who parked on Bay State rd., Commonwealth ave. and other streets in the vicinity found blue tags on their cars, and the doctors hurriedly made provision to find new parking places.

Hotel doormen of the district bemoaned a loss of revenue in tips from guests who were in the habit of handing them the keys to their cars to be parked nearby, hitherto immune from tagging, and liveried chauffeurs and expensively befurred society girls indignantly accepted the tickets for parking in double lines and other violations as the implacables went about their duties.

LONG SEEKS NEW AUTO REGISTRATION DATE

Shooting for a prize estimated at $1,500,000 in taxes, Commissioner Henry F. Long of the State tax division today advocated a change in registration date of motor vehicles in Massachusetts.

Master Chief Mourner at Laddie's Rites

MONTEREY, Cal., Feb. 14 (AP) — Simple funeral services were held today for Laddie, the airdale who died of a broken heart after his master was called into the service of his country.

Chief mourner was Private Everett Scott. After Scott left his Chanute, Kas., farm to go into the Army and was billeted at Fort Ord, 10-year-old Laddie went into a decline. Veterinaries said he would die unless he saw Scott again.

The weakened dog was brought here by airplane and reunited with his master.

But it was too late. Laddie's weakened heart failed yesterday.

Fourteen dogs have been offered to Scott in letters and telephone calls but he indicated he would refuse them.

Major Frank Dorn at Fort Ord said it appeared the Fort was to become "the airdale center of the United States."

Iron Guardists Jailed For Killing 100 Jews

BUCHAREST, Feb. 14 (AP) — Twenty-one members of the Rumanian Iron Guard were condemned to 20 years of hard labor by court martial today on charges of killing more than 100 Jews in the January rebellion.

This is the sixth attempt by Commr. Long to switch the date from Jan. 1 to April or July 1.

"We keep the highways of Massachusetts open during winter months at considerable cost," Long declared in an interview. "Then we discourage potential drivers from using the benefits of this expenditure by making it difficult to put their automobiles on the road. The result is gasoline tax income falls off sharply during the months of January, February and March."

Long's measure is one of five filed this session calling for the elimination of the first-of-the-year date. His bill would make April 1 registration day as would three others. The fifth bill, backed by the Massachusetts State Automobile Dealers' Ass'n, Inc., would make July the beginning of a new automobile year.

O. K. JULY DATE
This latter legislation follows the pattern of a bill filed by Gov. Saltonstall which would make the fiscal year of the Commonwealth begin on that date.

Long said he approved the July date and had, in fact, during past sessions, filed bills advocating this.

"The Commonwealth loses about $1,500,000 because it adheres to the January registration date," Long said. "This is only an estimate but that is the figure I would say comes closest to being right."

"I think we should encourage car owners to keep their vehicles in use as much as possible. With only rare exceptions, this change away from the ending of a year, Christmas and the innumerable expenses the average man faces at that time, would be most encouraging."

CIRCULATE PETITIONS

Petitions supporting the automobile dealers' legislation are being circulated throughout the State with reportedly good results.

Massachusetts, in addition to being the only State in New England with compulsory automobile insurance, is also alone in the section in keeping the calendar year as the automobile registration year.

In the past insurance companies and the registry of motor vehicles provided opposition to legislation along the latter line.

Necessary changes in office routine, confusion in the makeup of registration plates and reflections on insurance figures relative to monthly risk averages are among the reasons advanced by these agencies in opposing the change.

$100,000 To Defense Official

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (INS).—Francis Blossom of New York, member of the construction advisory committee of the quarter-master general's office, today told the House Military Affairs Committee his share in profits from a defense construction job would amount to around $100,000 although he is on the War Department's payroll for $125 a week.

Blossom said Sanderson & Porter, New York consulting engineers, had obtained a contract for a recently-built $30,000,000 shell-loading plant at Elwood, Ill., for the Atlas-Hercules Co. and its fixed fee profit was $1,114,000. He said his share was about 9 per cent, or about $100,000, although he had not participated in letting the contract.

The committee is conducting an investigation into War Department's defense contracts. It had Blossom on the stand to ask him about why some contractors got certain big jobs in sections of the country in which they were not known, while local contractors were not considered.

Under questioning by Rep. Clanton (R.) of Massachusetts, as to why the Walsh Construction Co., of Davenport, Ia., received an $8,000,000 contract to construct Camp Edwards on Cape Cod, Blossom said at the time there were no contracting firms in New England capable of taking the job under the rules laid down by Secretary Stimson.

He said Stimson had ordered the work passed around to the big construction companies such as Stone & Webster, Fuller Construction Co., and others.

"We would do it over again," he said, speaking as a member of the advisory committee.

South Boston Drydock Fund Cut Over Protest

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP).—The House naval affairs committee decided today to call Admiral Harold R. Stark, chief of naval operations, for secret testimony tomorrow on the reasons for the Navy's desire to establish a $8,100,000 air base in the New England.

Capt. Harry W. Hill, representing Stark, told the committee the project was deemed necessary as developments of military aviation had brought the Samoan Islands into the Pacific "strategic picture" to a greater degree than ever before.

Rear Admiral Ben Moreell, chief of the bureau of yards and docks, testified a $30,000,000 item, chiefly for rehabilitation of the South Boston, Mass., dry dock, was only half the amount the Navy asked the budget bureau to approve. The reduced amount, he said in response to questions, meant a proportionate reduction in the capacity of the plant to handle repair work. The project was intended, Moreell said, to relieve the "terrific congestion" situation at the Boston Navy Yard.

PAULINE AIELLO
Her Kidnapers Guilty

Moreell said the work at South Boston would be done under a "blanket authorization" of $6,180,000 which Congress granted last year but that the balance of the authorization probably would be devoted to other projects.

Skippers, 2 Women Guilty in Kidnaping

SALEM, Feb. 14.—Trial of three Gloucester fishing boat captains and two women on charges by a 19-year-old Gloucester girl that she had been attacked in a summer camp and then kidnaped and taken to Michigan, halted abruptly today when all five defendants pleaded guilty.

Atty. John Burke, counsel for Salvatore Parisi, 30, of Commercial st., Gloucester, skipper of the St. Theresa, charged with the attack on Pauline Aiello of Washington st., Gloucester, immediately withdrew from the case on the change in plea.

Atty. William Clark, counsel for the other four defendants, made an impassioned plea for leniency.

Parisi sobbed violently and some spectators wept when Judge Vincent Brogan pronounced sentence.

SENTENCES FOR FIVE
Parisi was given a three and a half to five year term in State Prison on an attack charge. Charges of kidnaping and assault and battery were filed.

Salvatore Nicastro, 30, of Curran st., and Philip Filetto, 37, of Commercial st., were sentenced to six months each in the House of Correction on the kidnaping charge and the charge of accessory to attack was filed.

Mrs. Mary Nicastro, 23, wife of Salvatore, and Mrs. Florence Curran, 22, of Commercial st., were given suspended sentences of six months in the House of Correction and placed on probation for two years on the charge of accessory to kidnaping.

CRIMINAL SCORES CUSTOM
During the emotional outburst which swept the courtroom on the change of plea, Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Cregg asked the court to take cognizance that this alleged "custom" of winning a bride amounted to seduction.

"It cannot go on," he said. Cregg then made a plea for Nicastro and Filetto. He said the mother of Pauline and a brother had called at his office and sought leniency.

Cregg's words were re-emphasized by Atty. Clark, who told the court representative citizens, a cross-section of Gloucester, had assured him his clients incurred no ill-will for their part in the kidnaping.

LIST 7 SHIPS IN NEW YORK AS SUNK

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (AP)—Marine circles disclosed today the sinking of seven British, Allied and neutral vessels, including the former American freighter Bellflower, sold to Greece and renamed the Victoria after a long lay-up at Norfolk.

Reports here said the 6085-ton Victoria, built in 1919 at Kearney, N. J., was torpedoed "somewhere at sea."

The British passenger-cargo liner Troilus, 7422 tons, in the African-Far East-United States run before the war, was listed as the victim of a raider in the Mozambique channel off Madagascar on Feb. 1.

The Greek freighter Nemes, 5101 tons, was reported to have gone down about 700 miles west of Berehaven, Ireland.

The British freighter Homeside, 4617 tons, apparently went down about 480 miles off Cape Finisterre, Spain. The second of two distress calls sent by the freighter said "taking to boats." She did not report cause of her sinking.

Other casualties listed: Kristina, Swedish freighter, 960 tons, sunk off Cardiff, cause unknown; Lila, Norwegian freighter, 218 tons, sunk in European waters with cargo of salt, cause undisclosed; Calverton, British trawler, 214 tons, no details.

Bushnell Moves In Job-Sale Case At Lawrence

Move for trial of those indicted last November by a special Essex County grand jury in the Lawrence job-selling scandal came today from Atty.-Gen. Robert T. Bushnell.

Bushnell announced he will ask that a special justice be assigned to sit at a conference he will have with Chief Justice John Higgins of the superior court Monday.

The Attorney-General's move follows a statement on his first day in office when he exercised his right to supersede a county prosecutor and took over the prosecution of the so-called Lawrence civil service cases in which 23 witnesses appeared before the grand jury sitting for eight days.

Bushnell's action today brings to a head the investigation of Lawrence city departments carried on by Ulysses J. Lupien, state civil service commissioner, who recently stated that every city department in Lawrence connected with civil service is being scrutinized.

5 FLEE LOWELL FIRE

LOWELL, Feb. 14 (AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Leo Monbleau and their three children, ranging in age from five days to seven years, were made homeless today when fire swept their home.

Her resignation as secretary of Revere's licensing commission accepted, Mrs. Dorothy Gillis of Revere followed her husband, Sergt. C. Wm. Gillis, as a victim of Revere's general shakeup. Her husband, brother of the former mayor, lost his post in the city claims department, now will do night station duty. The couple were married a year ago. Boston Evening American Photo

F. D. MAY TAKE HAND IN RAIL STRIKE THREAT

RUTLAND, Vt., Feb. 14—Intervention by President Roosevelt loomed as a possibility today as officials sought desperately to avert a strike by Rutland Railroad employees, set for tonight.

While eleventh-hour attempts to arbitrate ended in a deadlock, officials planned hopes on some action which the President himself may take.

Both the receiver for the road and the union chief asserted today they had no immediate intention of retreating from the positions they had taken. In almost identical statements they said "the next move is up to the national mediation board in Washington."

The Vermont Congressional delegation, in their appeal at Washington, asked the President for "immediate action to postpone and perhaps prevent a strike."

The strike was called after Louis G. Morphy, receiver of the road, posted an order, effective tomorrow, which calls for wage reductions from 10 to 30 per cent for some 1300 employees.

Washington is reportedly intensely interested in the controversy because a shutdown of transportation facilities on the line at present would tie up troop movements. The 258th Field Artillery, Fort Ethan Allen, bound from New York city, is scheduled to pass over the Rutland line on Monday.

'Twill Grow Hair on Bald Heads, But May Kill You!

SEATTLE, Feb. 14 (AP)—A hair-raising discovery was reported at the University of Washington today. Drs. Earl R. Norris and James Hauschildt have isolated a new vitamin, called inositol.

Inositol is what the technicians term an "anti-alpecia factor." It seems the Greeks had a word for "baldness," and "alpecia" is derived from that word.

So far, however, trying out the hair-raising possibilities of inositol might prove too hair-raising an experience for human beings.

Doctors Hauschildt and Norris have grown hair on bald mice with inositol. The only trouble is some of the mice died under treatment.

So—Dr. Norris gestured at his own bald hair, significantly.

"If we could grow hair on human beings," he grinned, "do you think . . . ?"

Inositol is found in yeast and liver. It is a compound containing carbon, hydrogen and oxygen in the same proportions that they are found in glucose and other simple sugars, but with the atoms arranged differently.

Powder Blast Kills 7 Men

DU QUOIN, Ill., Feb. 14 (AP)—A terrific blast killed seven men and leveled the liquid oxygen plant of the United Electric mine of the Fidelity Coal Co., about five miles west of Du Quoin, today.

"We don't know what caused it," a spokesman for Mine Supt. Fred Huff said. "An investigation is being made by mine and state officials."

He said the men were engaged in unloading a freight car of explosives which were being moved into the plant.

Many U. S. Tax Returns Filed

No one need fear for the solvency of the United States if income tax returns are a yardstick. Thomas B. Hassett, collector of internal revenue, declared today.

Manufacturers, business concerns and individuals are responding to appeals to file returns early. While no figures are available as yet both the number of returns and payments are ahead of last year at this date.

Returns from one large Boston firm, Hassett said, show a 200 per cent increase from that source. As an example of the co-operative spirit of some business houses, he pointed out that in many instances managements are paying the full amount of employees' taxes now and taking reimbursement from the employees in small installments.

At the Federal building returns of individuals are reported ahead of last year and at one large plant in Lynn, Hassett said, 1248 returns were taken in two days by field men sent there to facilitate making out employees' statements.

Mother's Plea Wins Thief Lighter Term

Following a tearful plea by his mother, Preston Hodge, 27, of Beacon st., Back Bay, was given the lightest sentence possible on a larceny charge in Brookline court today by Judge Daniel A. Rollins.

After listening to the mother's story that her son was released from the Deer Island House of Correction only yesterday after serving two months for larceny of a bicycle, Judge Rollins sentenced him to 45 days for larceny of household goods and filed two similar charges.

Hodge's previous sentence for larceny resulted from the slenching of a Boston Record-American newsboy who trailed Hodge to his home after he allegedly made off with the bicycle of Fred Heyman, 12, of Park drive, when the boy went into a house to deliver papers.

2 Reformatory Aides Held in Boy's Murder

ST. CHARLES, Ill., Feb. 14 (AP)—Two attendants at the State Training School for Boys were held without bail today for the murder of James Williams, 16-year-old inmate.

State Atty. Seidel said an autopsy showed Williams, a Negro, had died as result of a beating with a club and a brass hose nozzle.

Mysterious Woman On Galapagos Island

LIMA, Peru, Feb. 14 (AP)—The story of a new, mysterious woman resident of the Galapagos Islands, in which Baroness Eloise Bonsquet de Wagner played the role of "empress" a few years ago, has been brought here.

Milton Lobell of the United States fisheries mission in Peru, at the end of a voyage from San Pedro, Cal., in the 80-foot yacht Pacific Queen, said he had found a stoop-shouldered, almost toothless woman hermit living in the "Garden of Eden."

She said she was an American citizen named Johnson, Yanson or Yansen, he related, but that she spoke with a decided German accent. She was about 45, of medium height and had light-brown hair. Her conversation showed considerable knowledge of the Pacific coast of the United States, he said.

NEAR PARADISE GRAVE

Putting in at the islands 700 miles off Ecuador to shift fuel tanks, Lobell said he found the woman in a hut near the grave of Dr. Friedrich Ritter, the German dentist, who with Frau Dora Koervin, left his wife some years ago to establish a "paradise" on desolate Charles Island.

She apparently was living on the fruit of the trees Dr. Ritter planted, which now are bearing abundantly.

Dr. Ritter died—his island mate said it was poison—some time after the arrival on the island of Baroness de Wagner and during the course of mysterious happenings in which the bodies of two of her male companions, Alfred Rudolph Lorenz and Trygve Nug-grud, were found on a neighboring island.

BEGGED FOR FOOD

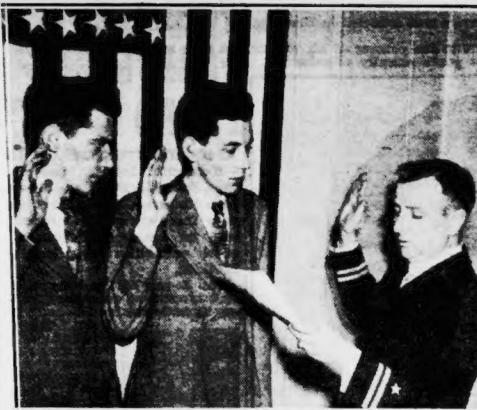

The Baroness, who carried a revolver on a silver cord about her neck, disappeared soon afterward. What happened to her has never been established.

The woman, who said she lost her money to a thief in Ecuador and had no choice except to seek refuge on the island, begged supplies of Lobell, but showed no desire to leave the carefully fenced garden where she has her home.

Revere Man Held In Cigarette Case

Sought on a warrant charging violations of cigarette tax laws, Arnold Alford, 25, of Walnut ave., Revere, alleged companion of Mrs. Doris Irene Leary Wentworth, 35, Brighton divorcee now facing a similar charge, surrendered to Brighton police today.

Arraigned before Judge Thomas H. Connelly, Alford pleaded not guilty to three counts charging possession of cigarettes with intent to sell without a license. He was released in personal recognizance for a hearing with Mrs. Wentworth on Feb. 25.

TWINS JAMES AND HENRY McPHERSON, 18
Lieut.-Comdr. C. H. Taecker Swears Them Into Navy

Twins From Newport Take Navy Oath Here

Up from Newport, raising their hands together to swear allegiance, and then back to Newport to begin their training as boys in the navy, was the day's business today for Henry Y. McPherson and James Y. McPherson, 18, of Newport, first twins to be taken this year at the Boston Navy recruiting station.

Six-footers, the youths are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Harold McPherson. The father is a civilian employe at the naval torpedo station at the training base.

Henry is a plumber and told Chief Petty Officer Charles J. Lyons he proposes to take up the steamfitting trade while in the Navy. James is going to put his time in on electricity.

Lyons, chief bos'n's mate, U. S. N., and holder of the Navy Cross awarded by Woodrow Wilson for distinguished service, explained the "coals to Newcastle" angle of enlistment. The applicant had to come from the naval base, Newport, to Boston for final examination, he said, as only a sub-station is maintained by the navy for preliminary examinations of men seeking to enlist.

Lyons won his Navy Cross by going over the side of the U. S. S. M. Vernon Sept. 5, 1918, on a dip rope to fix a collision mat put over the side when the vessel was torpedoed.

PLAIN COFFIN HOLDS BODY OF KRIVITSKY

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (INS)—The body of Gen. Walter G. Krivitsky, former head of the Soviet military intelligence in western Europe, who was found shot to death Monday in a Washington hotel, lay in a plain pine coffin in a Brooklyn funeral home today.

On the coffin was pasted a simple legend: Samuel Ginsburg, Krivitsky's real name.

Washington police have termed the death of Krivitsky a suicide, but have left the case open for evidence because of the belief of many of his friends he was slain by agents of the Soviet GPU operating in this country. They said Krivitsky was in mortal fear of his life because of his sensational articles exposing the workings of Communism in the United States and abroad.

"Why Krivitsky Died" by Jan Valtin will appear in The Boston Sunday Advertiser.

FUGITIVE FACES HUGE FRAUD CHARGE

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14 (AP)—Handcuffed between two detectives, Robert J. Boltz was returned from Rochester, N. Y., today to answer fraud charges in connection with an investment business in which authorities say clients lost $2,500,000.

The 54-year-old socially prominent investment counselor, known among associates as "Honest" Bob Boltz, was arrested on a Rochester street yesterday after a 16-week search and was turned over to Philadelphia detectives there last night.

Robert J. Boltz

The detectives said Boltz was handcuffed because they had received reports that U. S. marshals might meet them at the station and make an effort to take Boltz into federal custody to face federal charges first.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Franklin E. Barr said Boltz would not have to be arraigned since he had been indicted by a Pennsylvania grand jury on charges of embezzlement and fraudulent conversion. The state could go ahead immediately with the trial, he added.

The financial adviser also is under federal indictment charging he defrauded 20 clients of $392,000. Federal Judge George A. Welsh, who originally set bail at $100,000 if Boltz were found, said the federal action "should take precedence because there are both civil and criminal proceedings against Boltz in the U. S. District Court."

SENATE GROUP HEARS R. I. WIRE-TAPPING WITNESS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—Lee Edward Barton, long missing witness and former agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, told a special Senate committee today he had intercepted telephone messages between Mayor Thomas P. McCoy of Pawtucket, R. I., and persons he "assumed" were public officials.

Barton, sought for six months by the committee investigating wire tapping, testified that Frank B. Bielaski, operator of a New York private detective agency, had employed him to "investigate municipal corruption and fraud in Pawtucket" and directed him to "link" McCoy, a Democrat, and former Attorney General Louis V. Jackovny of Rhode Island, a Republican.

The "tap" on the line of Jackovny was placed in 1939 when Jackovny was still holding office.

Barton related that Bielaski hired him in August, 1939, and that he stayed at a "listening post" in the home of Edward L. Freeman, Pawtucket, from the middle of September until November 2 listening in on McCoy's line.

FBI May Probe Canal Crashes

BALBOA, C. Z., Feb. 14 (INS)—Spurred to action by a series of four American Army air crashes in two days, Col. A. H. Gillespie, commander of the air defenses of the Panama canal, today ordered a sweeping investigation into sabotage possibility.

All scheduled training flights and missions were cancelled pending inspection of planes to determine whether any of the craft stationed at vital Albrook field have been tampered with.

Army authorities, it was learned, may ask the Federal Bureau of Investigation for assistance in running down evidence of sabotage.

The investigation was begun in greatest secrecy. But a highly reliable informant said that every plane of the Twelfth Pursuit Wing was being inspected by technical experts under Maj. Randall, wing executive and an engineering specialist.

The four crashes which occurred this week took a toll of three lives. The latest victim was Second Lieut. John K. Fisher, 24, of Providence, R. I., who was killed when his pursuit plane, taking part in dive-bombing practice, crashed near Chame.

Japs Slap, Insult 12 Tokyo Folk Seen Reading English

TOKYO, Feb. 14 (AP)—The newspaper Nichi Nichi quoted a youthful student today as saying it is no longer in safe for a Japanese to study English in public.

The youth said his face was slapped by a man who saw him studying English vocabulary cards on the way to school, where the subject is barred.

A translator for the Japan Advertiser reported he was berated by a kimono-wearing Japanese for reading the English edition of the paper—which is controlled by the foreign office—while riding an interurban train.

Glittering Splendor Marks Style Show

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 14 (AP)—In the traditionally lavish Hollywood manner, California put on its first designers-only fashion futures show with fanfare and splendor, before 1000 giggling guests in a glittering, crowded ballroom.

Press agents reported a quarter of a million dollars worth of clothes were shown. There were diamonds and jewels with value estimated by somebody at $2,000,000. There was the usual sprinkling of celebrities, vying with the styles on parade in dazzling raiment of their own.

Guests banqueted on breast of capon from tables profusely decorated with citrus leaves and golden fruit; models minced and smiled and radiated glamour, aided by the movies' technical best in brilliant lighting effects.

SIMPLE OR FANTASTIC

The fashions themselves were a chaotic melange ranging from movie studio productions made frankly to startle the eye, to the custom-made California clothes which have won a place in smart wardrobes everywhere—simple in line, impeccable in taste, made to be worn with grace and comfort.

A sweeping survey of the clothes-to-be-worn groups displayed a persistent note of femininity of the more subtle kind, conveyed by softened shoulder lines, graceful pleats and frothy touches of lace, rather than by accentuated curves and sheathed silhouettes. Girls are to be alluringly pretty for this stern era of emergency defense.

WHAT ONE CAN WEAR

Here are a few summarized jottings:

Skirts—Definitely short, hardly covering the knee-cap for informal wear, though smartest designers caution against following this too literally for types it does not become. Slim in appearance, but often pleated, with freedom of movement a fundamental. Definitely long and still bouffant for filmy evening things, but narrow in some sophisticated moods.

Hats—Pokes and scoops for flattering face frames by far the most numerous. Sailors broad-brimmed and worn tipped back for pompous. Bretons with many tailored street suits.

Suits—Softened shoulders and peplum suggestions for the classic two-piece kind, feminized with ruffled blouses. Costume numbers with dresses and swinging capes in two-color combinations were well-received.

Veils—Almost obligatory with many hats. Wide range, from tied-under-the-chin net, to filmy silk mesh, draped with utmost ease.

VENETIAN BLIND SHIRT

Colors—Emphasis on unusual, but not too garish combinations. Beige and brown or cream combinations were used effectively in the California casuals.

Shoes—A definite trend to the lowered heel for active wear, cut in flattering designs. Totes in or out, to choice.

A show favorite was a cream and brown pleated sports suit by Howard Greer, with knife pleated skirt cunningly attached by drawstrings to the belt, so that by a quick shift of the belt, pleats changed from cream to brown. He called it "Venetian blind."

Some coats had sleeves to match the dress in printed suit ensembles. An effective one was shown by Mme. Jeanne with dress and sleeves of elephant gray print.

In the Hollywood eye-statterer group, many a masculine eye was drawn to Milo Anderson's bouffant evening dress of fish-net and black taffeta, with fox boa and ecq feathers, the skirt slashed to show a net-stockinged leg well above the knee, the slash marked by a diamond garter.

SHIPYARD TO REOPEN

Officials today were making plans to reopen the shipyard on Marginal st., Chelsea, for defense work. The plant and equipment, formerly used by the Boston Dry Dock Co., will be utilized for construction of boats for the so-called mosquito fleet of the Navy.

5-9 Years For Slayer Of Hostess

SALEM, Feb. 14—His wife slumped in her seat, but John William Henry, 40, former Salisbury Beach special policeman, appeared unmoved here today as he heard himself sentenced to a term of 5 to 9 years in state prison.

Henry was found guilty last Tuesday of manslaughter in the death of Mrs. Olive Farrell, 46-year-old hotel hostess. Her battered body was found in the surf off Salisbury Beach on Oct. 25.

Atty. Michael J. Batal of Lawrence, defense counsel, made a plea to Judge Vincent Biagna for a House of Correction sentence, but the government demanded state prison.

Henry's wife, Marie, 33, who has been loyal to him throughout, was heated with three friends in the front of the courtroom when the convicted man was called to stand to hear the court's decision. She leaned forward intently, her hands gripped together. When the sentence was pronounced, her right hand went to her mouth, she pulled her head back and then slumped down, covering her face. Her women friends put their arms about her and assisted her from the room.

Cop Incognito Aids Dad and Ailing Boy

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14 (AP)—A serious-faced young Idaho farmer and his 12-year-old son he brought here for removal of a prunet lodge in a lung have found a friend in need in the cop on the beat and things are much brighter today for them.

Through a helping hand extended by the policeman, Alma Lloyd, 36, may get the money he needs to return with Alma, Jr., to Soda Springs, Ida.

"My name," said the policeman, "Don't mention it. Just say a Philadelphia policeman, that's all."

Lloyd was a bit embarrassed. "I've never had to ask for help before in my life," he explained. "Whatever help I get, I'll pay back every cent."

"That policeman practically took me by the arm and made me eat."

The operation at Temple University Hospital was successful and baby Alma is almost ready to go home.

Acts to Save Old Colony

Steps to maintain railroad service to the South Shore as a vital step in national defense were being studied by Gov. Saltonstall today after a meeting called to discuss reorganization of the Old Colony and New Haven Railroads.

Representatives of 13 insurance companies holding $72,000,000 in New Haven bonds attended the meeting at the Boston City Club. A committee headed by Alden C. Brett of the Boston Chamber of Commerce was formed "to make recommendations for concrete action at the earliest possible time." There is now pending before the Interstate Commerce Commission a petition for inclusion of the Old Colony in the New Haven reorganization.

American Woolen Co. Acts on Pay Raises

Officials of 24 units of the American Woolen Co., today were considering "substantial" wage increases demanded by some 22,000 workers in New England, New York and Kentucky.

Modification of existing contracts with the company was also asked by the T. W. U. A. (CIO), president of which is Emile Rieve, who says that six mills, employing 14,000 persons, are now covered by the T. W. U. A. contract.

CAREY OUSTS BUCKLEY, CRACKS DOWN ON REVERE WELFARE CHISELING

REVERE, Feb. 14—After discharging the veteran Fred Buckley as Revere's commissioner of welfare, Mayor Raymond E. Carey today said he was going to crack down on so-called chiselers on the relief rolls.

People with good jobs have obtained weekly checks from the Revere welfare department, the mayor stated he had been informed. A five-man board, one to represent each section of the city, will be formed to examine each welfare case before money is handed out, the mayor declared.

Buckley, who served for many years in the welfare branch of the city service, was advised of his discharge in a letter from the mayor, handed to him at quitting time. Francis Walker, an employee tentatively was placed in charge of the department.

"There will be no more sponging. Loose management is going to be tightened up," stated the mayor as he declared that expenditures of more than $500,000 for needy purposes have been responsible in large part for the city's high tax rate.

NEW CONNOLLY CHARGES HIT 11

testifying that she was given a list of eight girl employees in the office and was told to ask them for a total of $1654 toward holding their jobs under Connolly.

Also, she testified, she paid $200 for a "guarantee" of her own job.

The girls, and the amounts Miss Kennedy said she was to get from each, were given as follows: Mary Brogie, $250; Martha Frit, $240; Gertrude Cotter, $200; Mae Brophy, $200; Catherine Gibbons, $200; Mary Hill, $100; Lillian Griffith, $200; and Anna Pugh, $200.

Connolly, whose appeal is still being considered by Supreme Court, was accompanied to municipal court by Sergt. Stapleton.

Application was made to the court for complaints on charges of violating Sec. 7 of Chap. 268, the Revised Statutes.

LAW CITED

This section of the law reads: "Whoever corruptly gives, offers or promises to a legislative, executive, judicial, county or municipal officer, after his election or appointment, either before or after he has qualified or has taken his seat, any gift or gratuity whatever, with intent to influence his act, vote or opinion, decision or judgment upon any matter, question, cause or proceeding which may be then pending, or which may by law come or be brought before him in his official capacity, or as a consideration for any speech, work or service in connection therewith, shall be punished by imprisonment in the State Prison for not more than five years or by a fine of not more than $3000 and imprisonment in jail for not more than one year."

Connolly and William T. Conway, his alleged agent in the charged conspiracy and requesting and accepting of gifts and gratuities, were found guilty by a jury last March.

The former court clerk was found guilty in 12 counts of requesting and accepting gifts and gratuities, and also was found guilty of conspiring with Conway to request and accept Edward G. Kelley's gratuities.

Conway was found guilty on 10 counts of "solicitation to give a bribe to John Patrick Connolly," these counts being misdemeanors.

The first 12 counts on which Connolly was found guilty are felonies, while the conspiracy conviction against him is a misdemeanor.

On April 8 of last year, Judge George F. Leary, in superior court, sentenced Connolly to three to four years in State Prison and Conway to two years in the House of Correction.

Immediately afterward, however, Judge Leary stayed execution of the sentence, declaring:

"I think there are legal questions involved in all these indictments which justify stay of sentences."

The judge, after admitting Conway to bail in $5000 instead of $10,000, and Connolly to bail in $10,000, with sureties, affixed his signature to a small printed label and sealed it on the backs of the indictments. The label read:

"I, George F. Leary, the justice imposing sentence in this case, do hereby certify that in my opinion there is reasonable doubt whether the judgment should stand."

"It is, therefore, ordered that execution of said sentence be stayed until further order of the court, and the defendant be admitted to bail."

Judge Leary's move was wholly unexpected, even to Det. Atty. William J. Foley and his first assistant, Frederick T. Doyle, who leaped to their feet with objections,

Heavy RAF Day Raids on Ports

but were quickly overruled. LONDON, Feb. 14 (AP)—The Royal Air Force carried out a daylight sweep over German-held ports along the French coast today and the thud of heavy explosions was heard on the English side of the channel.

The sky over the French coast was dotted with black puffs from anti-aircraft shells.

The attack was made during intervals of British sunshine after a heavy mist had lifted from the Channel, making the outline of the French side visible from the Kentish coast.

Half way across the Channel British planes fought with German craft and one of the latter, a Messerschmitt, was reported shot down.

Aside from this, British sources said, the British raiders apparently encountered no opposition from German fighter planes.

Senate Chiefs See Aid Bill Victory

Army chief of staff, before it for an expression of his personal opinion on what effect aid to Britain has on American defense.

VICTORY SEEN

Marshall will be asked to survey the entire defense setup in a closed session to be held at his convenience.

Confident that a clear-cut victory for the bill was as good as won, several Administration leaders suggested tentatively that the Senate might make one final change in the measure to "promote national unity" and meet "halfway" Wendell L. Willkie's proposal that immediate help be confined to Britain, China and Greece.

The wisdom of the suggestion, however, was questioned at once by one group of the bill's supporters who argued that such a limitation might have an undesirable effect on the French troops under Gen. Weygand in North Africa.

DEBATE MONDAY

Although well disposed toward Willkie, these Senators felt that the bill should hold out the tacit promise that Weygand could get supplies here if he decided to cast his lot with the British. They also pointed out that the Senate Foreign Relations Committee had weighed the Willkie proposal carefully and decided against it.

The bill, approved 15 to 8 by the Foreign Relations Committee yesterday, will go to the floor for debate Monday. Democratic Leader Barkley told reporters, "Two weeks should be ample time for discussion." He said there was no doubt that the bill would go through "by a vote of 2 to 1 at least."

He Egged Hitler Back in '20s, Now He's an American

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 14 (AP)—A man who said he once threw overripe tomatoes and eggs at Adolf Hitler became an American citizen today.

John Leisi, 37, of Ashland, Pa., a country club steward, who came to this country from his native Munich, Germany, 13 years ago, said he had watched Hitler's slow rise in the '20s.

"As a follower of Von Hindenburg," he told court attaches, "I belonged to a group which frequently heckled Hitler when he made 'soak-box' speeches."

Dog, $5000 Winner, Gets Canine Big Head

BROCKTON, Feb. 14—Mitzie, a dog, apparently couldn't stand prosperity after winning a will contest for $5000 over a man in Plymouth Probate Court.

For the dog developed temperament, probably because of his newly inherited wealth, and had to be sent elsewhere by Mr. and Mrs. John B. Allen, Jr., cousins of Mrs. Sarah Schroeder, Mitzie's late mistress.

Name administrators of the dog fund, the Allen's took Mitzie to their house on Forest ave. But Mitzie—now one of the Bay State's richest canines—refused to get along with Fluffy, the Allen's dog. He was sent to board with another family.

Originally, the will mentioned a dog and a cat, but the cat died while Mrs. Schroeder was on her death bed. Benjamin Townes, a cousin, was the loser in the strange will contest. He alleged unsound mind, but his petition was dismissed.

Vermont Statehood Honored by Stamp

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—A reproduction of the state Capitol building will provide the central motif for a three-cent Vermont commemorative postage stamp to be released at Montpelier, the state capital, on March 4. Postmaster General Walker announced the stamp will be printed in purple ink. Across the top will be arranged the inscription "United States of America," with "Vermont" at the bottom. Directly beneath will be the wording "150th anniversary of statehood."

Edwards Excursion Trains Are Cancelled

Cancellation of Sunday Boston-to-Camp-Edwards excursion trains until further notice, to reduce the number of visitors and thus co-operate with Army officials on their traffic problem, topped news today on the military front.

A new high in the draft rejection rate, a warning to draft appeal boards and preparations to receive more than 2700 colored youths at Ft. Devens, were other developments.

The New Haven announcement, calling off the initial run to Fal-mouth scheduled for Sunday, coincides with army officials doubling the number of week-end passes to the YD boys in an effort to stave off the influx of friends and relatives—15,000 last Sunday—until construction work at the camp is completed.

300TH INFANTRY

The mass induction of the colored boys, mostly from Boston, was ordered after decision of Army authorities to form a separate colored regiment to be known as the 300th Infantry.

The colored draftees, who have long awaited their call to service, will be inducted Wednesday, and at Ft. Devens will be under command of Col. Edmund P. Andrews and three lieutenant-colonels to be named in a few days.

From Adj.-Gen. Edgar C. Erickson, state director of selective service, came the order to draft appeal boards to guard against possible "occupational partisanship."

BOARDS BIASED

While pointing out that under regulations these boards must comprise representatives of labor, industrial, the law, medicine and agriculture, Gen. Erickson indicated there was a tendency of these representatives to be biased.

All appeals for deferment must be judged strictly on their merits regardless of their occupations, he stated.

While additional hundreds ran the medical gauntlet at Boston, Springfield and Worcester induction stations in the third call, draft officials disclosed that the rejection rate had gone up to 22 per cent.

SENT TO SCHOOL

Of the latest group of 240 men examined in the Greater Boston area, only 190 were accepted and sent to Ft. Devens.

At Camp Edwards, home of the YD, it was announced that four enlisted men had been sent to Ft. Devens to attend the West Point Preparatory School, an officer candidate school.

The men, Corp. John C. Boleyn, Pvt. John Stevens, Pvt. Paul Wheaton and Pvt. Warren Conlon, had been selected for entrance into the U. S. Military Academy in the state quota previous to their induction into federal service.

YD headquarters said a maximum age limit of 36 years has been set for YD enlisted men who desire to enter officer candidate schools.

Army Life Big Bore to Him

NORTH BERGEN, N. J., Feb. 14 (INS)—Pvt. Vincent Meyer had plenty of ready reasons when police picked him up at his home on a charge of walking away from Fort Dix, N. J., and staying away 47 days.

"Aw," Meyer said, "they wake you up at 5:30 in the morning by firing a cannon. They give you corn flakes and milk without sugar. They give you beans at noon even if you don't like them. They drill you even when your feet are tired. They make you sleep in a tent. You get turkey only once a year—Thanksgiving. The sergeants are tough—no back talk. And the pay is poor."

Meyer, who enlisted for a year, faces a total of 1410 days in the guard house—30 days for each 24 hours AWOL.

GIRL SCOUT SOUGHT

Search for 16-year-old Alice Anderson, a Saugus Girl Scout, was intensified by police today following reports she was last seen with a man Wednesday night after attending a scout meeting in Cliftondale.

FLAG ASS'N ORGANIZES TO BATTLE FOREIGNISMS IN NATION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14—"A declaration of independence of today," described as "a declaration of freedom from foreignisms" was promulgated here on the anniversary of the birth of President Abraham Lincoln.

The declaration, prepared under the auspices of the United States Flag Ass'n, of which Col. James A. Moss is president-general, and bearing the names of 56 national leaders in business, finance, labor, art, literature, drama and public life, was read over a nation-wide radio hook-up from the Columbia Broadcasting studios here by Sen. Robert H. Reynolds of North Carolina, member of the Senate foreign relations committee and one of the signers.

Patterned after the American Declaration of Independence of 1776 and paraphrasing some of its language, the flag association's declaration, as heard by the radio audience and as published in numerous newspapers throughout the country, says in part:

"When in the course of human events subversive forces and influences assume proportions that make them a menace to the ideals and institutions of a nation and the security and happiness of its people, national loyalty and self-preservation demand that all patriotic citizens rally around the flag, waging on such forces and influences relentless war.

"The American people have been most patient and forbearing in their sufferance in the activities of Communists, Nazis and Fascists, whose subversive doing have become a menace to the life of the nation.

"In addition to a number of Communist dailies, there are published in this country scores of weekly and semi-weekly papers, with many monthlies and semi-monthlies and hundreds of shop and other publications.

"For the teaching of Communism a dozen or more schools, with several thousand students, have been established in various parts of the country.

"On American soil the German-American Bund has organized military units, wearing uniforms suggestive of those worn by German storm troops, and they are trained and drilled in formations according to the regulations of the German army.

"American-Italian Black Shirt

Legions, some 10,000 strong, with thousands of sympathizers, are today marching in America with the same resounding tread as that of the goose-stepping storm troops of the German-American Bund.

"Whereas the time has come when the security of the nation and the happiness of its people require that these subversive activities be stopped, we, loyal citizens of the republic, who believe in our republican form of government and the American way of life, and abhor totalitarianism, voicing the sentiments of all patriotic Americans, do solemnly publish and declare that these United States of America should be free from all foreignisms; that, there is in America room for only one ism: Americanism.

"Therefore, we call on our fellow countrymen to rise, and joining hands in the great brotherhood of Americanism—militancy in our hearts and determination in our souls, with vigor in our spirits and strength in our arms, with the battle-cry, 'foreignisms must go!'—wage relentless war on Communism, Nazis and Fascists, until they have all been driven from our shores."

NAZIS BOOST BRITISH SHIP LOSS CLAIMS

BERLIN, Feb. 14 (AP)—The German air force battered at British maritime, industrial and military targets from Scotland to Cirenica, the high command announced today, while co-ordinated Nazi air and naval units pressed their effort to strangle England's ocean shipping. A previously reported attack by warships on a convoy in the Atlantic resulted in the sinking of 14 armed and loaded British merchantmen totalling 82,000 tons, the daily war bulletin said. The toll had been listed yesterday at 13 vessels. Germans were jubilant over the latest reported naval success, comparing it with the announcement of Nov. 7 when they claimed the British lost 86,000 tons of shipping space.

The British said 32 of 28 vessels attacked by the Germans in that raid escaped as a result of the fight put up by the armed cruiser Jervis Bay, which was sunk. —Editor's note.

An authorized source disclosed that the reason the German air force recently machine-gunned the airport of British-occupied Reykjavik, Iceland, was because it had been used as a sort of base for transshipment of war materials to Britain.

He pointed out that Iceland is outside the American neutrality zone.

"German surface craft operating in the Atlantic and overseas to date have sunk, roughly, 670,000 tons of enemy merchant shipping, space or space usable by the enemy," the war bulletin said.

"To this must be added numerous ship losses which the enemy suffered through mine hits in overseas waters."

Nazis Say Suez Canal Blocked

BERLIN, Feb. 14 (AP)—German reconnaissance reports said today that Suez canal traffic has been blocked in two places as a result of German bombing of ships and that crews and troops from halted vessels were camping on the canal banks.

At one place on a Suez approach, German scouts said they found a "big concentration" of ships, including freighters and transports.

The report continued: "Some 10 kilometers (about six miles) away, a damaged ship of 6,500 tons is an obstacle to navigation."

"Further along the canal seven big ships, apparently including tankers and transports, are tied up. Big tent camps are pitched on the left side of the canal, indicating that the English are prepared for a long involuntary halt."

Hussars Gain In Tripolitania

WITH BRITISH FORCES AT BENGASI, Feb. 13 (Delayed) — (AP) — A Hussar regiment of the army of the Nile's armored division advancing west of Bengasi has crossed into Tripolitania without encountering major Fascist opposition, British sources reported today. This would indicate the British have driven a considerable distance beyond El Agheila, Cirenica, port 180 miles southwest of Bengasi where the last official announcement said they were operating.

In the first contact with Fascist forces in Tripolitania, a native camel corps was said to have surrendered to the Hussars, handing over 200 camels and 60 fine Arabian horses.

talking Japan into striking. Therefore it was felt the opportunity had arrived for the concurrent move to warn Japan the western powers were on the alert.

American officials would not admit the move represented joint action. They do not even like the phrase "parallel" action. They prefer to call it independent action by the United States and the other powers concerned in behalf of their own interests.

At the same time, however, it is emphasized that protection of British and Dutch interests in the Pacific represent protection of American interests.

Australia Set to Nip Any Jap War Threat

SYDNEY, Australia, Feb. 14 (INS)—Amid rising tension over possible spread of the European conflict to the Far East, the Australian war cabinet held an emergency meeting today and discussed the latest information received from overseas.

The cables to the government indicated there is no further "deterioration in the situation," authorities revealed.

Nevertheless, the government speeded up its preparations for any eventualities that might result from a sudden Japanese drive to the south.

At the end of the war cabinet meeting Acting Premier A. W. Fadden declared:

"The people of the commonwealth may rest assured that the warnings which have been issued were regarded as necessary, so that everyone might be the need of placing the nation's interest first."

"Australians can and will face any crisis calmly and with deliberate purpose."

Heads of all the Australian defense forces were summoned to meet with Air Chief Marshal Sir Robert Brooke-Popham, commander-in-chief of the British Far Eastern forces, who was believed to be en route to Sydney by plane from his headquarters at Singapore.

London Tones Down Far East War Talk

LONDON, Feb. 14 (INS)—In an abrupt reversal of attitude, British authorities today began to soft-pedal all talk of a crisis in the Far East.

It appeared that London circles accepted at face value the assurances of a Japanese spokesman at Tokyo, who expressed belief that "nothing would happen" in the Pacific involving war between Japan and Australia.

Furthermore, London authorities began to incline to the view that the Australian government perhaps "flew off the handle" a little too rapidly when it issued a warning that the war had entered a new phase of "utmost gravity."

At any rate, instead of the worried concern they expressed yesterday, British official quarters expressed belief that the Far Eastern situation is not as urgent and critical as yesterday's "acute reports" indicated.

At the same time, they warned

JAP BLITZ FEARED—Possibility of a Japanese strike at the British bases in the Far East loomed today as all Americans were warned out of that area. Belief that Japan may attempt to seize Hong Kong (1) and Singapore (2) in a drive at the Dutch East Indies (3) was expressed. Meanwhile, Jap battle fleets were reported off Hainan (4) and Haiphong . . . and strengthening of American bases (5) in the Pacific was asked of Congress.

the outlook in the Orient is still far from settled.

Great interest was expressed in British reports which were described as indicating the United States will "refuse to be intimidated by what may prove eventually to be an elaborate diplomatic game."

F. D. Calls Far East Warnings Repetition

WASHINGTON, Feb. 14 (AP)—President Roosevelt told a press conference today the new warnings to Americans to get out of the Far East represented a repetition of previous warnings.

He made this observation when asked whether the warnings were merely a routine repetition or a result of increased gravity of the Pacific situation.

He advised his questioner he had better take the matter up with the State Department before using any such adjectives as "increased gravity" in describing the warning.

Mr. Roosevelt said he was receiving the new Japanese ambassador, Admiral T. Chisaburo Nomura, later in the day.

Bulgar-Yugo Chiefs Rush to See Hitler

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 14 (INS)—Possibility of a three-way conference in Germany among Chancellor Hitler and leaders of both Yugoslavia and Bulgaria was reported in advices to Belgrade today after a sudden airplane dash to Germany by Yugoslavia's premier and foreign minister.

The reports said the suggested triangular meeting might lay the basis for a quick German military sweep across both Yugoslavia and Bulgaria against the Salonika region of Greece and the Dardanelles-Bosphorus region of Turkey.

SPED TO HITLER

Amid these reports Yugoslavian Premier Dragisha Cvetkovitch and Foreign Minister Cincar Marcovic left Belgrade by special plane yesterday and arrived at Salzburg in response to an urgent summons from Chancellor Hitler.

There they were met by German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop, who will escort them to Hitler's Berchtesgaden villa today.

Another diplomatic report said Hitler will give Yugoslavia 10 days to join the Rome-Berlin Axis and to make concessions facilitating Germany's war plans in the Balkans.

Still another report, which was not confirmed, said that King Boris of Bulgaria also was en route to Germany from Sofia for conversations with Hitler and the Yugoslavian statesmen.

MAY DEFF NAZIS

Cvetkovitch and Cincar-Marcovic are expected to do their utmost to keep Yugoslavia out of war and to provide stiff opposition to German demands.

Previously the Yugoslavian foreign office notified Berlin that any demands for passage of German troops would be resisted. Today it appeared that all Yugoslavia is prepared to yield to Hitler in a pledge that Yugoslavia will remain strictly neutral and passive should German troops march through Bulgaria.

While there was no confirmation of the report that the Bulgarian monarch also is en route to Germany, it was pointed out that Boris yesterday hastily returned to Sofia from his country estate and conferred with his cabinet.

ATHENS, Feb. 14 (AP)—Geared to the "heaviest and most successful bombing" in the British Royal Air Force's Albanian campaign after 48 hours of artillery preparation, a Greek offensive was reported today to have driven Italians from strongly fortified positions on the central front.

The RAF communique used superlative phrases to describe the air assault yesterday and the preceding night in which Tirana, the Albanian capital; Durazzo, the principal port remaining to the Italians, and the Tepeleni and Buzi regions were principal targets.

"Heavy bombers attacked air-dromes at Tirana and Durazzo in night raids, hangars and planes being hit," the communique said. Four twin-engine bombers were destroyed by fire at Tirana.

Throughout yesterday "concentrated and repeated" attacks were made against Italian positions at Tepeleni and near Buzi, in support of Greek land forces.

The Greeks reported that, in a hard-driving offensive in the central sector, they dislodged Italians from fortified positions, timing the attack to the aerial bombardment. Greek infantrymen went forward at dawn yesterday, dispatches from the front related. They stormed heights in the face of desperate resistance and advanced foot by foot through a hail of fire from Italian mortars, machine-guns and rifles.

MANY ITALIANS KILLED

During the battle, the sky was dotted with planes of both sides.

Greek troops soon captured one height of "great importance" and other positions north of Klisura, it was reported. After the Italian withdrawal, from reports said, the Fascist dead and wounded were counted in hundreds and much Italian material fell into Greek hands.

Two Italian divisions in the central front fighting were identified as the "Wolves of Tuscany" and the "Hunters of the Alps." The Greeks said the new Italian commander in Albania, Gen. Ugo Cavaliere, had counted on these reorganized divisions to stem the Greek advance.

From Bitoli, Yugoslavia, at the Greek-Albanian frontier, came reports from Greece that the government, apparently in fear of German invasion through Bulgaria or Yugoslavia, had called up several additional classes of reservists.

Chute-Bomb Libyan Raid Fails

WITH BRITISH FORCES IN BENGASI, Libya, Feb. 13 (Delayed)—(AP)—German bombers, resorting to a new wrinkle, dropped huge bombs attached to parachutes in a two-hour raid last night on this British occupied port in Italian Libya.

Similar tactics have been used in the bombings of London, Nazi planes dropping parachutes carrying huge land mines, weighing up to 4000 pounds apiece.—Editor's note.

One of the projectiles wrecked a vacant building, the blast shattering windows and blowing out doors a quarter of a mile away. Another, exploding on rocks in shallow water near the quayside, made a splash which rose 300 feet and drenched areas blocks from the harbor. Shipping was undamaged.

7 DIVORCES GRANTED, WIFE ASKS ANNULMENT

As sweethearts elsewhere exchanged Valentine tokens today, tales of broken romances echoed through Suffolk Probate Court with the result that seven divorces were granted, and one annulment petition was taken under advisement.

Testifying in support of her annulment petition Mary Hurley Whitney of Huntington ave., Back Bay, told the court her husband had married her under an assumed name and was now serving a sentence for bigamy.

The man she wed in Newark, N. J., as Carl Robert Whitney on Aug. 4, 1931, was really Richard J. Campbell of Peabody, she said, and he was already married to one Evelyn Ryan.

Mrs. Whitney testified that she discovered her husband's bigamous role after he disappeared on their second wedding anniversary. After a friend had informed her Whitney was already married she went to the police and he was subsequently arrested and sentenced to jail.

RETAINS MARRIED NAME

For the sake of a daughter, Frances, eight, Mrs. Whitney asked the court for permission to retain the name under which she was married. She also requested separate support for the child.

The petition, unopposed, was taken under advisement.

On a charge that her husband, John F. Hughes, address unknown, deserted her on Columbus Day, 1935, Mrs. Florence E. Hughes, of Queensbury, Back Bay, was granted an uncontested divorce.

She told the court their holiday marriage of Thanksgiving Day, 1927, came to a sudden end when her husband decamped without giving any reason. She was granted custody of a daughter, Marjorie, 12.

Recounting the withering of their World War romance, which ended abruptly when her husband also deserted her, won an uncontested divorce for Mrs. Daisy Lewis, of Moore st., Winthrop.

She married Murray Lewis in Al tringham, England, on Feb. 20, 1919, she told the court. In 1922 they came to Winthrop to live until 1926 when he left her to go to Portland, Me.

Ten years later he returned, she said, and asked her to take him back. This she testified she did on a probationary basis. But it was no go, according to Mrs. Lewis and early in 1937 her husband left following a no-talk strike of seven weeks.

Mrs. Lewis described her husband as a professional soldier and told the court he was now in the English Army and on duty at Yarmouth, N. S.

It was after she and her husband had visited the grave of a child on Decoration Day, 1931, that he disappeared, Mrs. Gladys P. MacDonald, of Dartmouth at, Back Bay, testified in winning an uncontested divorce for desertion from Charles MacDonald, of Berlin, N. H.

16 KISSLESS YEARS

Uncontested divorces were also granted to Joseph Napoleon Croteau, of Boston from Delia A. Croteau, who charged cruel and abusive treatment. He testified that 16 of his 19 years of married life were kissless.

Cruel and abusive treatment was also charged by Julia C. Du Wors, of Marcella st., Roxbury, in her suit against William J. Du Wors, of Prescott st., East Boston.

She told the court Du Wors was released from Deer Island early this week after serving a one-year sentence for non-support. She also was granted custody of three children, Lorraine, 8, Arlene, 6, and William, 9 months.

Helen M. Flynn, of Cohituate, divorced Thomas D. Flynn, Brookline taxi driver, on grounds of gross and confirmed habits of intoxication, and Margaret Baker, of Main st., Waltham, won a decree from James Orion Baker, Boston trumpet player, on a charge of desertion.

Rayburn, McCormack Talk With President

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24 (AP) — Speaker Rayburn of Texas and Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, the House majority leader, surveyed the House legislative situation briefly with President Roosevelt today. They said afterward that no major legislation except appropriation bills would come up in the near future.

Rayburn said a general tax bill probably would not be taken up before spring.

ONE of the sinister objectives of the Lend-Lease Bill as it passed the House was evidenced in the total failure to adopt a provision that would prohibit the sending of another A. E. F. overseas.

OFF TO FIGHT AND
DIE IN 1917 WAR
Shall We Also Doom
These Men's Sons?

In fact, the House VOTED DOWN two such propositions.

Representative James E. Van Zandt, Republican, of Pennsylvania, former National Commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, moved to prohibit the President from sending American soldiers outside the Western Hemisphere or the Philippine Islands without the consent of Congress, but his proposal was killed by a voice vote.

Congresswoman Jeanette Rankin, Republican, of Montana, the first woman Representative in Congress, who voted against the entry of the United States into the World War in 1917, lost her motion to prohibit the use of American troops overseas.

This is in DIRECT DISREGARD of the solemn promises made by President Roosevelt in two instances to the American people in the last campaign that not "A SINGLE AMERICAN SOLDIER WOULD BE SENT TO EUROPE."

The country elected Mr. Roosevelt and sent an Administration majority back to Congress on that pledge.

Now the House has deliberately refused to concur in that mandate of the people and that pledge made by the candidate of the Democratic Party.

What relation has this refusal to provide for a Stay-At-Home Army ONLY and the War Department ordering 4,500,000 battlefield identification tags for an Army that is not yet in existence?

Does it mean that the ADMINISTRATION IS GETTING READY TO SEND AN ARMY TO EUROPE?

Does it mean more white headstones in some "Flanders Field?"

Does it mean more Gold-Star Mothers? Does it mean more heartbreak?

If the American people are UNANIMOUS on one thing it is this:

NOT A SINGLE AMERICAN SOLDIER FOR OVERSEAS!

The Senate should see that an amendment is attached to the Lend-Lease Bill that prohibits such an Army from going to Europe.

If this is NOT done, then the American people have been deceived.

The electorate of BOTH PARTIES voted against war, against another A. E. F., against any further "excursions" to foreign lands.

IT VOTED FOR THAT 49,000,000 STRONG.

The House of Representatives has made a mockery of democracy while professing to defend it.

The Senate can still rectify this grave breach of a pact made with the people.

GOLD STAR MOTHER WEEPS
Is Congress Going to Break
Other Women's Hearts?

PLUMP WOMEN who have been looking enviously at their lighter and more athletic sisters may stop worrying.

This is the consoling message of the National Retail Jewelers' Association:

"The thin, over-dieted woman with a race-horse figure usually has to buy her own jewelry, whereas the leisurely, stout woman is the recipient of the world's most costly jewels."

"That's because plump women appeal more to men than the very thin women."

"Moreover, the plump neck certainly shows off expensive jewels better than the scrawny neck."

"Actually, women diet to please other women, never to please men."

On The Side

AMONG the mothers not jealous of their son's wives was Martha Washington, who wrote to her daughter-in-law: "My Dear Nelly: God took from me a daughter when June roses were blooming. He has now given me another daughter about her age when Winter winds are blowing to warm my heart again. Pray receive my benediction and wish that you may long live the loving wife of my happy son and a loving daughter of your affectionate mother-in-law, Martha Washington."

CONFIDENTIAL: "As to no beautiful woman weighing more than 140 pounds," writes a Chicagoan, "consider the famous Seven Sutherland Sisters, acknowledged beauties of the yesterday. None of these sisters weighed less than 180 pounds."

The automobile windshield wiper was invented by Sied Back, an American-born Chinese of Portland, Ore. Back gave his invention away, as he already had a million dollars or more and didn't want to be bothered with any more money. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Kinser of Indiana believed "Z" was a lucky letter and so had children named Zella, Zola, Zelpha, Zona, Zeldia, Zoline, Zanford, Zulala and Zoretta. A famous novel having a dentist as a leading figure was "McTeague" by Frank Norris. Just saw a picture of a dog that had been fitted with false teeth. Surely if a dog with a denture bit a man that would be news.

her with Basil Rathbone in "The Sun Never Sets"? She is one of the six good actresses in Hollywood.

SAYS SHE: "Why is it fat male business executives always wear tight fitting double breasted suits?" asks a young woman of Manhattan. "Why is that personnel and efficiency experts are invariably given to courting the feminine workers? Why are male executives working for the same firm so insanely jealous of each other? Why are the executives who know the least about the English language so pompous in dictating?"

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Thursday — I always get a thrill when I stand at the foot of the Lincoln Memorial and watch the flags waving and see the flowers being placed on his shrine on Feb. 12.

So many terrible things were said of him while he was alive; if by chance, he was the person that those who said them described.

On the other hand, there were people, many of them, all over this country, who did not wait for his death to give him their love and devotion. And when his death occurred they felt they had lost a personal friend.

One cannot live in the White House without feeling the influence of the Lincoln tradition, because so many rooms are marked with his name. Aside from that, time has allowed us to get away from the bitterness of his day and to evaluate his services to mankind.

His passion for justice and freedom for all, his great kindness, which made him at times put mercy above justice, seem to be driven home as you look at his portraits and live in this house.

He was never petty. There is no record that he ever made people suffer for things said of him. His patience seems to have been phenomenal, and his sense of humor allowed him to rebuke with an amusing story what some people might have called treason.

May we plain people learn from him to practice the virtues that make life better for us all in the long run.

HER ROYAL Highness, the Duchess of Luxemburg, and some of her party, went with me to Mt. Vernon yesterday afternoon. Mr. Charles C. Wall, the resident superintendent at Mt. Vernon, took us to the tomb and house where Mrs. Horace M. Towner, regent of the Mt. Vernon Ladies Assn., met us and accompanied us through the house. Her Royal Highness was very appreciative of the beautiful situation and this country place built in Colonial days.

I never cease to marvel at the ability with which women of that period must have run their numerous businesses in order to provide their very large families, which included all their dependents, with shelter, food and clothing, and recreation. Education, judged by the size of the school house, did not require much space in those days.

AFTER the dinner given here last night, Mr. Sigmund Spaeth, known on the air as "The Tune Detective," entertained us all for a half hour or more with "Music For Fun." I was delighted to see many of the busy tired men around us relax and laugh. I think it meant more to the Americans perhaps than to our foreign guests, but even they seemed to be entertained and amused.

This morning, my press conference ladies met the Grand Duchesses and then we held a short conference. Today our guests are busy, but I think on the whole they are not being put through as close a schedule as usual, so I hope they may have more time to enjoy themselves.

BORIS KARLOFF SHUNS AUTOGRAPH FANS
By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—Boris Karloff always hires a cab to take him from the Fulton Theater and "Arsenic and Old Lace" to Sardi's restaurant two blocks away. He does this because his face is easily recognizable, and autograph hunters always stop him. . . . The other day Mr. Karloff decided that he needed the fresh air and began to walk. After a few steps he rushed into a cab because two drunks kept following him, shouting: "We're not afraid of you. Boo!"

SPIRIT: When Morris Gest was in London two years ago he met Hannen Swaffer, the columnist who is one of the leaders of the Spiritualist movement in England. Gest asked him whether he ever had succeeded in communicating with the spirit of David Belasco, who was Gest's father-in-law. . . . "Oh, yes," Swaffer assured. "I've had many messages from him. He's doing bigger and greater productions than he ever did during his lifetime." . . . "Then he's happy?" suggested Gest. . . . "Well, he has one complaint—about the lighting for his shows," Swaffer reported. "There are no shadows in heaven, and so Mr. Belasco is unable to achieve that important differentiation between light and shade." . . . Last week Louis Hartman died. He was the lighting expert who had been associated with Belasco's productions for 40 years—supervising the lighting for all the shows since "The Return of Peter Grimm." . . . Morris Gest cabled Hannen Swaffer: "Now Mr. Belasco won't have to worry about his lighting."

DRAMA: At the Pierre, Gest was introduced to Dolores del Rio. He discussed the theater—discussed it with fanatic fervor. . . . "I feel this way about it," the producer told her. "There is only one aristocracy, and that is the theater. Even if an actor is a tramp and can't get a part in any play—he's still better than any banker." . . . Miss del Rio made no comment, and Gest asked her: "Do you agree?" . . . "Well, I'm not sure," said the screen star. "You see—my father was a banker."

DOLORES DEL RIO

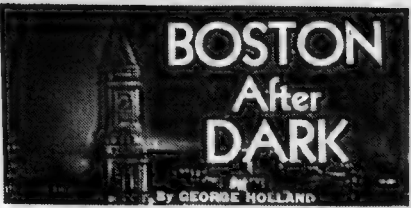

QUERY: Frank Buck tells of a phone call which awoke him one midnight. "Are you Mr. Frank Buck, the man with the lions and other animals?" asked the caller. . . . "Yes, yes," Buck answered. "What is it?" . . . "I want to know," said the caller, "when you train the lions, do you hold the chair in front of you or does the lion?" . . . "You silly clown!" Buck shouted, "waking me up to ask me such a ridiculous question. Of course I hold the chair!" . . . Then he heard the caller whisper an aside: "Here, pussy, pussy, pussy—see? I was right."

GAME: Everett Sloane and Paul Stewart, the Mercury Theater actors, were in Lindy's recently testing each other's knowledge. "Name the Southern States," Stewart began. . . . "If I were a BMI man," Sloane replied, "I'd start with Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Frenesi."

EXCHANGE: Edna Ferber gave a dinner party for some friends at her home last week. Miss Ferber sat at the head of an enormously long table. She placed George S. Kaufman at the foot of the table. . . . When Kaufman was about to sit down Miss Ferber—almost shouting so that her voice would carry across the long distance—said: "You'll write me once in a while, won't you, George?" . . . "Of course, Edna," Kaufman replied, "but I don't know whether to use a two-cent or a three-cent stamp."

CHATTER: The identity of "Jan Valtin," author of "Out of the Night," soon will be announced. He's "Mr. G."—whose real name sounds like that of a famed prize fighter. Because of the Red-Nazi pact against him and his book, he's being protected by Westchester police. The book probably will be serialized in the movies, because of its wealth of film material. . . . Howard Hughes has offered Paramount more than the $285,000 it paid for the rights to "Lady in the Dark." . . . Tommy Manville is abandoning his Bon Repos estate because of the robbery and will reside in town.

BOSTON COLLEGE FANS will welcome Bill Bardo at the Totem Pole tonight. . . . He played the B. C. Victory Ball at New Orleans following the Tennessee game. . . . And it was while Wilham was playing at the Totem Pole that he was booked to play the dance in New Orleans.

WHEN THE WEST COAST was flooded with inferior bootleg hootch, manufactured by the ingenious Japs, a clue to the Asiatic origin of the stuff was found in the spelling "hwisky." . . . (This is the dictionary's phonetic spelling of "whisky," for aid in pronunciation.)

STANLEY WILLIS, ERSTWHILE Boston booker, who is now holding forth in the vicinity of Pa'ama, sends along a new example of Japanese penetration in the Latin America sector. . . . The Japs are making match-books, and the one sent north by Stanley has a legend: "Made in the Fiji Islands, U. S. A."

THE TOWN MEETING DEBATE between Professor Cross of Harvard and Father Murphy of Boston College became heated enough at one point for the air to be filled with boos. . . . But the two professors were courteous antagonists, and the objectionable question came from the floor. . . . It seems a safe prediction that the night will come when one of these uncensored questions will be troublesome enough to incur the wrath of the FCC.

AND FUNNY FRED ALLEN—who doesn't have to care what we think, and doubtless doesn't—is back to his irritating habit of laughing at his own quips. . . . His friends hereabouts, who place him first among the comics of the air, are concerned for Fred's own sake. . . . His unmerry mirth is the only smirch on a fine program.

THE "SMEAR JOE KENNEDY" movement retarded to sotto voce—after Joe gave comfort to the "aid for Britain" boys. . . . The Kennedys say that Joe was in favor of aid for Britain, "short of war," at all times. . . . The White House set has stamped the Ambassador an "appeaser," nevertheless. . . . We know, because we have a signed letter from one of the closest friends of FDR, a citizen of great prominence, who verbally swings at the Kennedy chin with one-two words.

THE LIBERAL CHARLES GARLAND is called a "St. Francis of Buzzards Bay" in an enlightening article by Benjamin Stolberg, ("Muddled Millions"), in a prominent nickel magazine. . . . That Garland's huge bequest was dumped into such Communitic ventures as The Daily Worker, the Red Labor Defender, and Fight, organ of the League for Peace and Democracy, makes interesting reading. . . . The Daily Worker got $50,000 of Garland money in five years, Stolberg says.

THOSE "LAST WEEK'S" ANNOUNCEMENTS from "Life With Father" are on the level. . . . Dolly Johnson and Phil Stevenson, the press-agents, have gone to Philadelphia—where the play will go next. . . . When the press-agents move on to new towns, the "hurry-up" announcements generally may be taken seriously.

MARGIE HART
She Hankers for the Legitimate

THE OLD HOWARD'S QUEEN, MARGIE HART, is the latest of the artistes de la strip to hanker for the legitimate. . . . Gypsy Rose Lee has been converted to musical comedy. . . . Ann Corio will continue her unprofitable but interesting career in "legit" this summer, and now, (we hear), Margie will essay an important role in a musical comedy being plotted for an early fall opening.

"LADY IN THE DARK" was sold to the movies for the sum of $275,000 (reputed). . . . The price actually was $225,000. . . . The movie firm added the $50,000 invested in the stage play, and that will come back with interest.

Hollywood Today

CONNIE BECOMING A BRIGHT STAR
By Louella O. Parsons

Connie Moore

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 14—A year ago any Hollywood studio could have signed either Connie Moore or Rita Hayworth for peanuts. Neither girl meant a thing. Today there are more directors wanting Connie and Rita than any other two young actresses. "I Wanted Wings" hasn't yet been released and all we know is what we hear about it, but on the strength of her performance Connie will have a starring role in "Buy Me That Town" with Lloyd Nolan and Albert Dekker.

Rita Hayworth will probably get the coveted Nita Naldi role in "Blood and Sand" at 20th Century-Fox, although the part isn't nearly as big as other movies offered her. But she lives the role and is beginning to do it and if Harry Cohn can arrange his own productions he'll let his wonder child have her way.

HELEN GILBERT

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Ad Randall suffered a heart attack while dining in a Beverly Hills cafe and was rushed home; the cosiest pair of diners in town were Elaine Barrie and Billy Seymour at the Beverly Tropics.

Rumor is very strong that Helen Gilbert, movie actress, is the secret bride of Billy Marshall; the cutest pair of romancers is Edith Fellows and Robert Jordony; 20th has signed Herbert Gunn, who is a dead ringer for Richard Greene—dimple and all; everyone and his bride is turning out for the Valentine party at Ciro's.

In the middle of one of the most exciting races at Santa Anita Mrs. Fred Astaire, Sylvia Fairbanks and Mrs. Charlie Feldman were talking fashions. But they were all watching the big race to see if "Porters Hat," as Sylvia called the Howard thoroughbred, would race home; George Raft had a bad day and didn't look too happy; Virginia Field, in a bright red hat, most becoming, was with Alfred Vanderbilt who told me that he never bet. The only time I collected was on a joint show ticket—one I had with Irene Selznick on Copertown—and she picked it.

PAULETTE GODDARD came in from Palm Springs today to check with Arthur Hornblow on "Hold Back the Dawn." There were rumors that she was going to Cuba immediately and would bow out of the picture. All of this is untrue.

Paulette had wanted to play the school teacher which Olivia de Havilland is now doing and for which she made excellent tests. Arthur thought she would be much better as the foreign girl (the parts are about equal in importance I believe) so she was finally persuaded to do as Hornblow suggested. So now all three, Olivia, Paulette and of course that swell actor, Charles Boyer, are testing for clothes, etc.

I'VE BEEN WONDERING what had happened to little Leni Lynn, who was sent out here on the dimes contributed by her school mates in Passaic, New Jersey. Remember what a lot of attention it attracted when the 14-year-old singer was signed by M-G-M? This studio never seemed to find anything for her—probably because July Garland was on the lot.

After a year and a half it was a sad ending to Leni's Cinderella story when her contract was not renewed. But it looks like fate is smiling in her direction again for Herbert Yates, boss of Republic, is going to put her into "Angels Without Wings" with several other newcomers on the Republic lot—and who knows maybe she'll turn into another Deanna Durbin for them?

I AM HAPPY INDEED that Charlie Chaplin agreed with me on "Buck Privates." He dined with Tim Durant and the Abbott and Costello movie was shown to the master of comedy—and you'll admit there's no one who knows what makes the audience laugh better than Chaplin. He was very interested because, "Shoulder Arms," a comedy about soldier life, was one of his greatest movies.

Charlie, always generous to other funsters, paid Abbott and Costello a compliment on their ability as comedians that should make them very happy indeed. Just a word to the two boys, they'll have to work hard to deserve praise from Charlie Chaplin who, for my money, has more understanding of comedy and pathos than any actor in the world.

Brothers Get Brother Jailed

Well might the Walsh brothers of Lynn shrug at claims that justice is speedy for two of them, with a defendant-brother co-operating, placed the latter in jail for a year today—less than 24 hours after the crime.

It was all a family affair, and very unusual, because Lewis Walsh, 33, of Rockland st., Lynn, was the robber and his two older brothers, Edward and William, were his victims, while a brother-in-law is the owner of the store where it occurred.

At about 5 p. m., yesterday, Lewis was wrestled into submission in the Newhall package liquor store on the Newburyport turnpike, Saugus, by Edward while alleged to have been robbing Edward and William.

Arraigned today in Lynn court, Lewis was held for the grand jury on a robbery charge, but waiting the grand jury and was taken today to superior court in Salem.

There, before Judge Vincent Brogna, he pleaded guilty to the robbery charge and accepted sentence of a year.

The court was told that Lewis, released from jail only 17 days ago, entered the package store yesterday and while there said he was going to keep it.

Not only that, said Edward and William, but Lewis slid around back of the counter, holding one hand in a coat pocket, as if he had a gun, and announced:

"This is a stickup! Come on."

give me the money!"

William started for the cash register with Lewis, and while the latter's attention thus was drawn away, Edward slipped up behind, thrust his hands quickly under his brother's arms and clamped a full nelson on him.

Then the brothers were in a quandary. Here were two of them with the third a captive. After all, he was their brother! So they decided to put it up to the brother-in-law, now vacationing in Florida, and they telephoned him.

The brother-in-law told them to go through with prosecution.

2 Children Die in Fire At Revere

down the stairway. At the same time the officers forced a front entry, picked up the other two children and helped Mrs. Mellen to safety. Mr. Mellen, who delayed to pick up some personal belongings, escaped by a ladder.

The entire downstairs of the frame house was a raging mass of flames when the police and fire department arrived. Heat was so intense that firemen were forced to move their apparatus down the street from the front of the burning structure.

Quinn received severe arm bruises during his rescue efforts. He was joined by Patrolmen William Gibson, Maynard W. Rogers and Timothy Cronin when they arrived on the scene in a radio car.

BODIES FOUND

The small bodies, charred beyond recognition, were found in a front bedroom on the first floor, where the fire was believed to have started.

Fire officials said a small oil stove exploded to cause the blaze. Flaming oil was thrown in all directions by the explosion, scattering fire on the beds of the sleeping sisters.

The loss was estimated at $4500.

FATHER AT WORK

Leo Perrier, father of the burned children, was at work in a Revere restaurant when the fire broke out. He arrived at the scene just in time to see firemen removing the bodies of his daughters.

Simultaneously with the fatal fire in Garfield ave., another blaze occurred in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alan O'Brien of Tree Valley rd., Revere. The O'Briens with their two children, Roberta, four, and Alan, Jr., two, were driven out.

The O'Brien fire caused $1000 damage. Men and apparatus of the Chelsea fire department aided in extinguishing the blaze because the two-alarm Garfield-ave. fire was still in progress at the time.

Safety Medal Returned; Driver Minus License

IRVINGTON, N. J., Feb. 14 (AP)—Red face department note: The department of parks and public property has returned a gold medal to the National Safety Council because a city employee for whom it was intended as a reward for driving seven years without an accident was found to have been driving an automobile without a license for at least two years.

You are thinking of marriage. You look forward to the chance to make your own home just as you wanted it, without the things that were so annoying at the family home, or in your bachelor or spinster apartment. And it may be so, for the first rapturous weeks.

Then trouble with lovers is that they think that when they have each other, all their ills will be at an end, that they will pass from rosy dawns through wonderful days to enchanting sunsets—bewitching interludes and unimaginable dreams. Though the world is full of wrecks of other people's loves, fancies, plans and hopes, most people believe their love will be perfect.

When you once start carrying out your resolve to get the best out of marriage, try it first by giving up something. Don't give up by setting a trap and watching your mate fall into it, having baited it with a "sacrifice." Be prepared, each of you, to give more than you take.

We do live in more crowded quarters nowadays. Many of us can't recall the ancient spacious life when everybody had a room to himself and we weren't in each other's way at almost every step. You women, remember that your being home all day doesn't mean that friend husband is a stranger when he comes home; remember that he is not to be treated as a nuisance.

And husbands, when you get home, try to recall that good cheer is a part of the business of life. If your wife is looking particularly pretty, tell her so; if she looks tired, suggest some amusement such as a ride in the country, or a good show, even if you had been thinking on the way home of relaxing in your easy chair with your newspaper and pipe.

One particularly good way of pleasing a husband, if his mother is living, is to make her welcome whenever she visits you, in such a pleasant generous way that your husband feels that his wife and his mother are the two finest women in the world.

This may often mean a real sacrifice on the part of the wife, who may secretly think her husband's mother is tiresome and old-fashioned, but if she can overcome this feeling and win the good lady's trust and affection, it will be well worth while.

A New Skin Emulsion

By ARLINE GOULD

THERE'S a famous skin specialist who says that, what with snows that blow... chimneys that huff and puff... icy blasts that nip... it's remarkable that the skin of American women is not reduced to the dryness of weathered hands. In her salon on Fifth ave., which specializes in a series of scientific facial treatments designed to do so much to help combat the prevailing skin problems of the seasons, she makes full and good use of her own creation... a liquid emulsion specifically designed to nullify chapping, roughness and redness of limbs and body.

She declares that this creamy liquid, which looks like pink rose petals, has unique properties. It soothes, softens and lubricates... because in it is a special protective ingredient that provides an invisible cloak.

When applied after you've been exposed to the nastiest of winter elements, it loosens skin particles... giving an alabaster smooth skin.

Wonderfully fine in texture, the pink liquid is pure and without a sign of grease... yet it miraculously adheres to the skin without soiling clothes or lingerie. And this is one lotion which you may count on as a powder base... on the complexion it becomes transformed into a perfect protective base.

If you'd like shopping information on this extraordinarily good make-up and protective lotion... for body, face and hands... phone Arline Gould, liberty 8, week-days except Saturday; write, care of the Boston being American, enclosing stamped, self-addressed envelope

Halibut Delicious When Properly Broiled

By MARTHA LEE

FLOUNDERS are generally known as delectable food fish. But few people realize that the halibut is a member of the flounder family, not only a member, but the largest fish in the flounder clan. Steamed and broiled, there are few foods that rival the halibut in taste and in health-giving properties. At the market it is not unusual to see a 200-pounder—and sometimes one double that weight is caught.

Aside from its great size, halibut is easily distinguished in the market by its creamy underside and its flat shape, characteristic of the flounder family. The oil from its liver has a great vitamin D content and is used extensively for health purposes. The oil from the entire body is rich in this vital vitamin. Thus eating halibut is a pleasant way to keep healthy for its taste is very acceptable to the palate.

BROILING

Have two pounds of fillets or steaks cut about 1/2 inch thick, or three pounds of whole fish split to 1/2 inch. Have also one-quarter of a cup of melted butter or cooking oil with 1/4 teaspoon pepper, to be used for basting. Other seasoning may be added, if desired. A salt solution of two tablespoons of salt to one cup of cold water will also be needed. Preheat the broiling oven for 10 minutes.

Dip the fish into the salt solution and let it stand about three minutes. Thin fish should stand one minute and thick fish 5 to 8 minutes. Oil the heated broiler pan. Brush the fish with oil and place on the pan about 2 inches below the heating unit. If skin is on the fish, the skin side should be on top. After 5 minutes, the skin should begin to bubble and turn brown. Continue cooking until the skin is covered with dark brown bubbles. Turn once, baste several times and cook until a nice brown. Do not overcook. Steaks or skinned fillets should begin to brown and cook in about the same time. This will take from 6 to 12 minutes, depending on the thickness of the fish. The skin of many fish gives an added richness of flavor.

cheese is melted and sauce is smooth, stirring constantly. Line greased casserole with 1/2 of remaining cheese; add layers of noodles, fish and sauce, using 1/2 of each amount; repeat. Top with remaining 1/2 cup cheese and sprinkle buttered crumbs over all. Bake in slow oven (300 deg. F.) about 1 1/2 hour. Makes 4 servings

THIN WHITE SAUCE

1 tbs. butter
1 tbs. flour
1 cup milk, rich milk or light cream
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
Melt butter and stir in flour; gradually stir in milk and stir until mixture boils and thickens; then cook about 3 minutes longer, stirring occasionally; add seasonings. Place over hot water to keep hot and cover tightly to prevent crust from forming on top.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

SOMEONE has asked me to write a definition of a friend—an honest to goodness friend. Nobody can do that for you. Friendship is like all else that is fine in life—like love or charity or honesty or faith—it is AS GREAT AS OUR INDIVIDUAL CAPACITY. "A friend" is not a certain, definite sort of human being who conforms to a certain ideal standard of behavior; nor do friends "just happen" to us, through the mysterious hocus-pocus of love.

A friend is an ANSWER—an answer to some NEED WITHIN OURSELVES.

We create our friendships. Consciously or unconsciously we choose our friends to fit certain personal desires, to compensate for certain personal lacks; and so our friends are as noble as our own needs, as fine as our own desires.

HOW NOBLE is your need? How fine is your desire? Why do you really want that friendship? What do you really expect from that friend?

At once a charming picture comes through your mind. You see yourself and your friend enjoying a beautiful companionship, building each other through the difficult mazes of life, sympathizing with each other in suffering, inspiring each other to finer living.

Oh, yeah? But, honest now, is that the form your friendship will really take? Perhaps it is. There are friendships like that. There are people who are strong and wise enough to endure a sincere and stimulating friendship.

But most of us don't want anything of the sort. We want someone who will coddle our weakness, condone our laziness, alibi our easiness, flatter our vanity, and help us escape from life's responsibility and depressing reality.

In short, what we want in a friend is good, reliable yes-man, who will help us go on being the idle, weak creatures which we are. And we'd be bewildered, peeved and bored by the wise, strong, ruthlessly honest friend of our day dreams.

WHY DO our friends fail us? That's why WE PICK FRIENDS WHO WILL FAIL US. Our friends fail us because, in our secret hearts we fail ourselves.

A true friend should understand, but never flatter.

He should sympathize with suffering, but never condone the weakness that caused that suffering.

He should love you and yet despise all that is weak in you, and expect you to do the same to him.

He should be himself, and let you be yourself. He should, even in the most intimate friendship, love freedom, give freedom, insist upon freedom—and be able to endure the responsibilities and loneliness which come to free souls.

A real friend should have these qualities. But have you these qualities, yourself? You dream about them, but do you practice them? Would you really enjoy living with them?

Friendship is what you make it! You get what you give. You find what you want. If your friendship is a failure, that failure starts in YOU.

Is House Gift Called For?

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

A young couple, friends of mine, who have been married about four years, are planning on moving into their new home in a short time. I have been invited to the housewarming. Will you tell me, please, if this invitation calls for a gift?

B. N.

An invitation to a housewarming doesn't necessarily call for a gift. Whether or not we give a gift depends on whether or not we wish to give a gift.

If you do decide to give a gift for the new home, you may either send it before the party or take it to the party. If these friends are especially close friends of yours, you will probably be inclined to add something to their home that represents you and your friendship for them.

DEAR MRS. BECKMAN:

Would it be proper for the married daughter of a widower who is soon to marry a widow, to give a reception for them sometime after the wedding?

B. R.

Yes, it would not only be proper for this married daughter to give a reception in honor of her father and his wife, but it would be a charming gesture for her to make. It would be a special compliment to everyone concerned.

AS IS IN MOST women's clubs, bridge is one of the most popular pastimes in the most exclusive of Boston's women's clubs—the Chilton, which is so exclusive that membership is inherited and only those whose names appear on the roster of members are allowed to enter by the front portals on Commonwealth ave. . . . Non-members invited to be luncheon, concert or bridge guests, have to enter by the side entrance on Dartmouth st. . . .

Every Wednesday the Chilton's crack-a-jack players gather for luncheon and the regular weekly duplicate bridge tournament . . . Individual scores are tallied throughout the season and at the final meeting in the spring the top scorer is awarded a handsome silver flower bowl donated by one of the members . . . To add a little extra competition top East and West and top North and South players have their choice of smaller souvenirs each week . . . The prizes are little sterling silver ash trays, cocktail glasses and novel highball glasses appropriately marked in red or blue.

It's quite appropriate with the Chilton tradition that some of the prizes are liquor glasses for perhaps you'll recall that years ago the club caused quite a stir among Back Bay conservatives when cocktails were first served to members, who of course are restricted to ladies. . . .

Players who stand a good chance of winning the 1941 silver bowl include Mrs. Gerry Greene, Mrs. Charles Boyden, Mrs. Pierpont Stackpole, Mrs. Edwin S. Webster, Mrs. Robert Treat Paine, Mrs. E. Sturgis Hinds and Mrs. Henry Harris. . . .

MR. AND MRS. SHELDON WARDWELL of Brookline went to Gotham yesterday to attend the wedding of their niece, Miss Florence Wardwell to Parker Read Waite, which takes place in New York today. . . . The bride is a daughter of the late Chester Alan Wardwell of Boston. . . .

Mrs. Theodore E. Brown of Milton is flying home from New York after attending the Lincoln Day dinner to hear Wendell Willkie's speech. . . .

The Nelson Odman of Manchester-by-the-Sea, who are spending the winter at their seaside home in Nassau, are frequent dinner guests of Eddie and Wallie Windsor at Government House. . . .

Mrs. Clifford Smith of Chestnut st. expects to return to Boston about March 1 after a visit to Palm Beach and Nebraska where she is now staying with relatives at a beautiful mountain estate. . . .

The young Tommy Whitneys are coming over from Gotham to spend Washington's Birthday with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. Handasyde Whitney of Beacon st. . . .

Hearts and Flowers the Motif

A HEARTS AND FLOWERS atmosphere will pervade the Women's City Club this evening for the annual Valentine party staged by younger members. . . . The entertainment, a varieties show of everything from monologues to guessing games, will begin at 8 o'clock and coffee will be served afterward. . . .

Hostesses for the evening include Dorothy Dalzell, Grace L. Enders, Rebekah Hobbs, Elise C. Lilley, Lavinia Sabine, Kathryn Sherman, Marion Scott and Emily G. Webb. . . . Assisting as ushers will be Rosamond Abrams, Mrs. David Burr, Mrs. Dorothy Easterbrooks, Viola Horn, Elinor Hughes, Polly Jennings, Jeannette McGregor, Mrs. Horace F. Pereira, Marguerite Ryan, Elizabeth E. Rigby, Else Rommel Tanager, and Marion Tombaugh. . . .

Flowers for decorations are being arranged by a committee including Dorothy Secomb, Virginia Stone and Madalene Sawyer. . . .

The ticket committee includes Iva M. Bryant, Marie Carr, Rachel Damon, Beatrice Gannon and Carol Whiting. . . .

EILEEN BRENNAN of Randolph, left, and Thelma Sorenson of Arlington will be leaders of the usher corps for the musicale, featuring the American debut of Mme. Jeanne Defauw, Belgian pianist, to be sponsored Wednesday night, Feb. 19, at Mt. Ida Junior College, Newton, to benefit the British War Relief Society.

International Folk Dances

In contrast to the screaming headlines of international discord and strife, international relations will be extremely cordial at the roll hour of folk dancing to be demonstrated at the College Club next Sunday evening by the International Dance Group.

Hostesses for the evening, which will begin with a buffet supper, will be the Misses Laura and Catharine Dwight of Wellesley.

Five couples, wearing the national peasant costumes of their home-lands, will exhibit and explain the strenuous measures known to the peoples of a happier Europe. They will be directed by Miss L. L. Bingham.

Other club members will gather again on Wednesday afternoon to discuss the new Windsor course, recently dedicated by the Duke of Windsor.

Hialeah Draws Bostonians

Bostonians sojourning far from icy streets and frosty window panes include Mrs. Newman Drake who made an attractive appearance at the Hialeah Park clubhouse in Miami Beach the other afternoon dressed in a pale blue coat with a platinum fox collar. She was accompanied by Mr. Drake.

Top ranking tennis champions were assembled for luncheon at the clubhouse terrace before the rain the other day chatting intermittently about jobs and volleys and which horse to pick for the daily double.

In the group were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Cooke (she's the former Sarah Palfrey of Brookline), Valerie Scott, the English women's champion, and Gardner Mulloy, who is well known to Boston tennis fans. Recent arrivals at the Vinoy Park Hotel in St. Petersburg include Mrs. John W. Boynton of West Newton, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur S. Bates, Boston; Mrs. Eva Munhead, Brookline; Mrs. Mary L. Staats, Newton; Mrs. F. L. Ripley, Winchester; Mrs. L. W. Southgate, Brookline; Mrs. Johnson L. Walker, Boston; Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Wadsworth, Winchester, and Mrs. Evelyn Sawyer, Dorchester.

Mrs. Charles E. Fay of Brookline was among the luncheon guests of Mrs. William J. McCahan, Jr., of Medford, N. J., at Clearwater, Fla., this week. About 25 guests attended the party, which was followed by an afternoon of bridge.

It costs nothing to do 15 minutes of exercise a day. It costs no more to eat non-fattening foods than it does to gorge on starches. And after all, if you have had that overweight for years, why not be patient but persistent about losing it?

So you think that's a revelation about the men, Mary? Nix! I could have told you. I've been eyeing my paunch covertly for some time, but just haven't had the courage to start your diet. Oh, Lord, give me strength!

'BUCK PRIVATES' IS BIG COMEDY-WITH-MUSIC HIT ON METROPOLITAN SCREEN

Abbott, Costello Furnish the Fun

The toogie-woggles answer the bugle call in "Buck Privates" at the Met, where Bud Abbott and Lou Costello make army life a laugh from reveille to taps. The Lou, of course, who keeps the comedy barrage rolling on high, whether he's peeling onions on k.p., or in the most ridiculous droopy pants yet devised, fighting it out in the prize ring with an opponent who makes the Angel look like Baby Snooks.

There's some bright new stuff for the boys to clown around with, once they're a couple of Uncle Sam's nephews, and the rolly-polly Lou makes every gag count. And then there are some familiar and sure-fire burlesque bits, with straight man Abbott trying to borrow $50 from the bewildered Lou, who ends up behind the eight ball as usual, and minus his entire capital.

There's a romance running around at loose ends between Jane Frazee, Lee Bowman and Alan Curtis, but it just never does get anywhere. Mr. Bowman is the millionaire playboy who learns how to be a man once the army works on him, and handsome Alan is his ex-chaufeur, who at last gets a chance to tell off the boss. Little Miss Jane is a camp hostess, and there would be one big rush for the enlistment lines if there was a Janie in every camp.

For some of the good tunes, there are the three Andrews Sisters, whose harmonizing you've been hearing on your radio. They turn in a fine bit of vocalizing in "You're a Lucky Fellow, Mr. Smith," the picture's top tune, and they go to town in "Bounce Me, Brother, With a Solid Four," which the hope-cats will go for. Old timers will probably prefer the trio in "I'll Be With You in Apple Blossom Time."

There are more laughs, too, in "The Wild Man or Borneo," as there always are when Frank Morgan is on hand. Billie Burke, Mary Howard, Marjorie Main and Donald Meek are others in this second Met feature.

Louis Bromfield Guest Star in Film

Louis Bromfield, popular author, is the guest star on the latest issue of the Information Please series, feature on the new bill at the South Station Theatre.

Not a Second to Lose!

IN HER TEN YEARS as chambermaid in a theatrical hotel, Katie Kilfeather had often rendered gallant aid to Cupid. Her own romantic nature, now that she was fat and nearing 50, found release through the love affairs of her glamorous guests.

Always on her floor at the San Pedro, which stood in the shadow of Broadway, there was some youthful Romeo or Juliet in need of a nurse.

In her day, Katie sometimes boasted, she had made more marriages than were made anywhere this side of Heaven. But last week Cupid's emissary turned in a neat bit of opposition. Her conscience is clear, however. She did the little love god a favor, she declares—a favor in reverse.

Ever since he moved onto her floor five seasons ago, Katie took a maternal interest in young Ban Drury. He was such a bright, dashing creature, tall and slim with a jaunty slouch. His hair was crisp, red and curly, his eyes were blue and full of drollery.

Ban was a night club press agent, one of the best. He put over one gay night spot with a fancy name after another, and had Katie dizzy trying to keep track of them all. Like Broadway shows, these places always seemed to be "bowing," as Ban called it when they opened up, and "folding," when they closed up.

Junior! Junior! My suds, I've lost the boy! Never saw quicker thicker lather in all my born days!

BAN DRURY, night club publicity man.

DRUSILLA, who seeks a career and a press agent.

KATIE, a chambermaid who knows human nature—and humans.

When she had known Ban a week she asked him to marry her—just like that. He mentioned it to Katie the next day when she came in to make up his room. It was all very surprising and flattering, he said. Drusilla was the first girl who had ever proposed honorable marriage to him. And it wasn't Leap Year, either.

"Hi!" snorted Katie. "Drusilla'd leap no matter what year it was; you can tell by the face on her." She dabbed her dustcloth over the daring likeness of Drusilla, which currently decorated Ban's chiffonier.

Katie was not impressed by Drusilla's bold looks nor her elite society background. In her own young days Katie Kilfeather knew engaged to a series of swains about town. Several elopements were rumored, which Drusilla later denied. This season's publicity's coup was landing a job at Ban's night club.

"She should be ashamed," said Katie when she heard of it, "a rich girl like that taking away a job from some professional that needs the work."

This was before Drusilla's designs on Ban had been formulated. But afterwards Katie remembered his defense of the creature. "This is a free country," he said, "and whoever can get a job is entitled to it. You've got to hand it to Drusilla. She sees what she wants, goes after it—and gets it."

When Drusilla proposed, Ban countered that he was just an upstate farmer boy, hadn't a nickel to his name, and wasn't worth a Glamour Girl's wasting her time on.

However she wouldn't take no for an answer. She launched a campaign of pursuit such as Katie had never witnessed in all her years of watching women track down their men.

"Well," said Katie with resignation, "I s'pose any moaning on my way to work. I'll read on the subway that the pair of you toxied up to Armonk or wherever the decision, "that I was not going to marry her."

"Hi!" snorted Katie. "Still and all, as you once said, you've got to hand it to Drusilla. She sees what she wants, goes after it—and gets it."

"She won't get me," said Ban sharply. "What does she want of me anyhow? She's got everything now, including her old man's dough. It's really flattering. It must be love, Kilfeather."

"Love!" snorted Katie, showing Drusilla's former picture under his nose. "Take a look at that face and tell me, Ban Drury, who is it Drusilla loves?"

Ban didn't even need to look. "She loves Drusilla," he said.

"Then what does she want of you, my lad? It's as plain as the red head on you—she wants a permanent press agent. Concealed as she is, maybe she's got an idea how sick the public is of that face of hers. It won't be long before they're sick of her voice. That's where you come in. It will be up to you to keep her before them somehow."

BAN FINDS A WAY

Ban groaned. "You can't push people down the public throat when they're through."

"Drusilla won't ever admit she's through," said Katie. "A hired press agent could quit on her, but you'd be stuck, my lad—for life." Ban's grin had faded. "I suppose she'll always see herself as No. 1 Glamour Girl," he sighed.

"Marriage would just be a publicity stunt," said Katie. "Has she ever said anything about a home or babies?"

"The boy let out a whoop. "Can you see Drusilla flipping a pork chop or washing the baby's neck?" "No, nor I can't see a lad brought up like yourself married to a girl that couldn't. Drusilla's just another career woman, Ban—a hired career woman, like the rest of your collection."

She waved a disdainful dustcloth towards the portrait gallery and marched out. "I'll be back with clean tools," she said.

When she came back Ban was in high spirits. "You've wrecked a Great Romance," he cried. "Drusilla just gave me the gate."

"What?" said Katie. "I told her I was going in the Air Service for three years. Would she marry me before I left? She wouldn't. She was right. Kilfeather. She wanted a press agent." He reached for his hat and coat.

"Where are you off to now?" "Down to the Air Service office. It's been in my mind for some time."

Katie looked at him fondly. "Even on K. I," she said. "You'll be a freer man than tied to Drusilla."

THE END.

She Wanted A Press Agent

By Hollis Starnes

It was a wild, hectic life that Ban led, working all night and sleeping all day. This season was the worst yet. It was the war, he said. People couldn't stand staying home any more, listening to the news over the radio. They wanted to get out and about, and force the world's troubles.

Ban said his brain was a blank from trying to think up new ideas to keep his clubs lively. Overwork, he declared, was cutting cruelly into his time for rest and romance. There were always droves of girls in Ban's life, though none of them represented what Katie called real romance. His walls were studded with pictures of night club beauties—"career women," he called them—"hot career women." Some of their autographs were so blazing, Katie said the frames should be fire-proofed. "They put me to shame for my own sex," she declared.

"A CAREER GIRL" But Ban said the ardent inscription meant not a thing, except the girls wanted him to put pictures about them in the papers. They weren't in love with him, nor he with them. "No career girl for me," he told Katie, "when the day comes for the big 'I Do.' But he had a smooth line with these Beautiful Eyesfuls, as he called them.

Katie could write a book of the soft soap she'd heard him give out on the telephone. He'd be winking at Katie as she made up his bed, and telling some Eyesful that he adored her, and what ravishing selves she had.

But there was no harm in Ban Drury, most of his bold talk began and ended on the telephone. He was a decent, good lad, and never missed a Sunday calling his mother on the long distance, upstate where the Drury's had a big dairy farm.

"Words are my weapons," he would say of his telephone courtships. "Some day I'll be swallowed up in a sea of ghoulish adjectives."

Even that, reflected Katie, would be better than being swallowed up by Drusilla.

The dashing Drusilla was Ban's current heartbeat, according to the column. She was a cafe society Glamour Girl and post-deb, who got a singing job after the holidays at Ban's night club. She couldn't sing much, but she was sultry and seductive, if not very subtle.

"Take a look at that face and tell me, Ben Drury, who is it Drusilla loves?"

Society with an upper case S. She had spent years, before she came to the San Pedro, as a child nurse among exclusive old New York families. Drusilla was never on the invitation lists of these families.

But she was a famous young woman for all that. Two seasons ago she had made a lavish debut, which established her with a bang in what Katie called the "rag, tag and bobtail set." Her father's millions took care of her costly coming out party, also of the high pressure publicity campaign that followed. Drusilla was eye-filling and photogenic, so it was easy enough to get her pictures in the papers.

After her debutante glory had died down, she tried to hold her place in the news by getting fancy place in, and waked up that sleepy Justice of the Peace."

"I told Drusilla," said Ban with

40 Beef, Pork Prices Up; Poultry Is Good Buy

Bill Corum Recalls: LINCOLN'S BIRTHDAY PARADE ALONG CHEMIN DES DAMES

IT WAS COLDER along the Chemin des Dames than it was here Wednesday evening. But it was Feb. 12, Lincoln's birthday.

There was something fitting about that. About "New England's Own" going into the front lines for the first time on that night. For hadn't they been told that they were going to fight to save the world for Democracy? To set free the oppressed? To make an end of wars, so that when this one was over all the world could lie down in green pastures forever after?

BILL CORUM

You said it, they had. It would be more than a slight exaggeration to say that "New England's Own" was starry-eyed. But it believed. Millions of words, rolling out of Paris, rolling out of London, rolling out of Rome, had sold it the bill of goods.

If perhaps a scattering handful of cynics, with an unpopular foresight, or faculty for telling the truth, had raised their voices to say, "End war in Europe... well, maybe for eight or ten years," nobody had heard 'em. The drums had been beating too loud and long in Plymouth and Nahant and through the little winding streets of Boston.

Now here it was. This was it. And this was a long way from the file and drum corps on The Common. Too distant even for a cheering echo.

Snow lay in the mutilated fields and on the shady sides of the bigger shell holes. But the ground of parts of the Province of Champagne is so white that it was hard to tell at a little distance whether it was snow or just the land.

A ghostly, seemingly deserted and God-forsaken land. More ghostly even than "New England's Own" knew. For in those shell holes and crumbling trenches were the bones and rusting bayonets and rolling uniforms of the thousands of Frenchmen with whom Mangin the Butcher had tried to prove that men could swarm over machine guns like bees.

And found they couldn't.

The bits and pieces of the 110,000 dead spent to take 500 yards of a chalk field. All that was left along the Road of Our Lady of what had been a gallant army.

"Beware—the Enemy Sees You"

THE ROAD ITSELF was a thin white paste such as a plasterer would use. Now and again there would be a hut in a hollow or a dugout with a camouflaged elephant back. Over one of these, snapping in the raw winter wind, the little Red Cross flag of a first-aid station.

These things and an occasional ambulance bumping past, its canvas sides rattling and slapping, and the seemingly endless road.

The marching orders had read "heavy packs," and heavy packs to rookie soldiers mean just that. Some of them still were lugging the framed picture that Aunt Hattie or Aunt Minnie had given them as she bade them a tearful good-bye in Hartford, or Portland, Me. And more than one still was insisting on keeping his last tin box of odibles from Filene's with him until he met the Kaiser face to face.

But the wisecracks of earlier in the afternoon along the lines of, "Oh boy, if I could just get your pitcher for the Boston American before you start pushing up the daisies," were forgotten.

"New England's Own" was cold and tired and hungry, and it was beginning to have a faint suspicion that it might not be going to like this war, after all. There does come a time, you know, when it's hard to remember the last speech of your Congressman.

The road climbed a long hill to a cross-road at its top and there

607 Speed Skaters Wait Gun for Ice Derby

By WALTER KILEY

The stage is set, the program complete and 607 of New England's speed skating champions-in-the-making are putting keen edges to their skating blades for Sunday afternoon's great annual ice carnival at Boston Garden—the 1941 American-Record Silver Skates Derby

PORTRAIT of Megan Taylor, 20-year-old English girl who will headline Silver Skates Derby at Garden Sunday.

If ever there was such a thing as an "extravaganza," it's this well-rounded skating show with its distinctive New England flavor.

The Silver Skates Derby is the skaters' show. It belongs to the New England public. The boys and girls who will be giving their all in quest of the eight different championships at stake make this an outstanding event. They represent the very finest qualities of amateur sport.

Capacity galleries have thrilled every year to the racing antics of the little tykes who put their whole hearts and souls into the winning. Some of these youngsters are hardly removed from the baby class, a kid, for instance, like Tiny Leon Bachman, a four-year-old boy from Saugus, skating Sunday.

SEASON'S BEST ICE SHOW

Some of them take a harmless toss, a few of the wee ones shed a few tears. Most of them, in their deadly seriousness of purpose, meet up with an unexpected experience which brings down the house.

This writer has taken in about every amateur or professional ice carnival to come to Boston in the past decade. But it is his opinion that there never has been or will be one to work its way into the cockles of fandon's hearts like the Silver Skates Derby.

Competition will be of the finest this year. Every division is loaded with talent. Ranging in age from four to 64, the participants hail from every nook and cranny of the six New England states, comprising the largest entry list in the six-year Derby history.

WORLD'S SKATING STARS

The cast of exhibition skaters is one loaded with world champions in their several specialties, men and women who have won the acclaim of royalty, who have done their smoothly flowing fancy skating, their trick and comedy stunts in the world's foremost ice arenas. The guest performers on Sunday are:

TENNESSEE DROPS B. C. FOR FORDHAM

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 14 (AP)

—Sports Editor Raymond Johnson of the Tennessean says that he had learned that the University of Tennessee would play Fordham rather than Boston College on Nov. 15.

The tilt will be played in one of three cities, New York, Baltimore or Cleveland, Johnson said, with Maj. Bob Neyland of Tennessee to decide next week on a definite site.

The Tennessee-Fordham game originally was slated for Memphis on Nov. 15 but was called off about a month ago when authorities of the two schools agreed to wait a year before starting their three-year series.

It was then that a game between Tennessee and Boston College, Sugar Bowl foes last Jan. 1, was arranged for the date at Memphis. Early this week, Boston College was reported to have decided, tentatively at least, that the Eagles could come South but once this fall, to play Tulane.

Johnson said he had learned Maj. Neyland would wait until Monday on the Boston authorities then settle on the Fordham game. Neyland holds little hope of coming to an agreement with Boston, the writer added.

The Charlestown District of the Boys' Clubs of Boston basketball team will meet the Tufts junior varsity quintet tomorrow at the Eben D. Jordan Memorial Gymnasium, Charlestown.

Sell Ball Club For U. S. Taxes

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn., Feb. 14 (AP)—Eighteen baseball players and the Maryville, Tenn., club franchise will be sold at public auction in Newport baseball park Feb. 21. President J. Ross Edgemon of the Appalachian League announced today.

The federal government advised him of the auction, Edgemon added, to satisfy tax claims against the Newport club, which owns Maryville. The players are on the reserve lists of both teams.

Plenty of Seats Still Available For Skates Derby

Despite an exceptionally heavy demand, plenty of fine seats for Sunday afternoon's sixth annual Silver Skates Derby at Boston Garden remain on sale. All reserved seats are priced at 45 cents. All balcony seats are unreserved and are 44 cents. Children 14 years and under will be admitted to the unreserved sections for 36 cents.

Tickets are on sale at the Boston Garden, Boston Arena and James W. Brine Co., 92 Summer st. Earliest possible reservations are suggested.

DARLING DIES OF PNEUMONIA

43
EVENING AMERICAN, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 14, 1931

'Best Back Ever at B. C.' Says 1922 Grid Captain

By WILL CONNELL

Charles Edward "Chuck" Darling, All-America halfback at Boston College in the Golden Age of Maj. Frank Cavanaugh, died today of pneumonia in a New Haven hospital.

The end came this morning at 6:30 after an illness of about two weeks. Pneumonia following influenza, ended the life of the 42-year-old World War Marine veteran.

Darling was married, is survived by his widow, the former Lucille Downs of New Haven, and one child.

A native of Minneapolis, Chuck came to Boston in 1921 after serving overseas with the Marines. He enrolled at the Heights and immediately joined Maj. Cavanaugh's varsity grid squad. There was no freshman rule at B. C. then.

ALL-AMERICA BACK

He had starred at Minneapolis High School and his ability even in his freshman year at B. C. was such that the Iron Major saw quick stardom ahead for his husky blond back.

But that first year Darling went to Texas with the Eagles to play Baylor, and in that game suffered a broken leg.

His football rise was delayed until the next season, when he started a three-year career in the B. C. backfield which won him nationwide praise and membership on many All-America teams.

Darling was a topflight outfielder, too, and a heavy hitter good enough to be mentioned as a professional diamond prospect.

Following his graduation with the class of 1925, Darling was engaged in business. For the past five years he was a steward for the New Haven R. R.

Boston College had come from nowhere in the college sports world in 1913, won the national title in 1920. And the sight of the Major's derby-hatted figure simply walking across the field, or of any of his stars either on or off the field, was enough to thrill small hero-worshippers to the heart.

Darling had plenty of rivals for the headlines with such teammates as Bill Cronin, Plaster Ward, Joe McKenney, Tony Comerford, Tommy Phillips, Steve Patten, Jack Cronin and Bill "Diker" Doyle, to

Six Star Milers In Gotham Race

NEW YORK, Feb. 14 (INS) — Six mending milers were all set today for a mass assault on the 4:07.4 mark made by Chuck Fenske for the Baxter Mile in tomorrow night's annual N. Y. A. C. games in Madison Square Garden.

The six-man field for the 30th running of the Baxter Mile is comprised of Fenske, MacMittell, Mehl, Munske, Venzke and Beccali.

Huskies' Quint Loses Pajonas

Al Pajonas, high scoring Northeastern forward, is through with basketball for the season, it was announced this morning by Coach Jimmy Dunn. The Huskies thus will be far from top strength for their sell-out game with Rhode Island in the Johnson Memorial Gym tomorrow night.

Pajonas first suffered an ankle injury in mid-December. He aggravated it last month and gave it a real twist on Wednesday against University of Connecticut. Pajonas was examined this morning by Dr. Henry A. Kontoff, team physician.

Pajonas probably would be ready to play for the last two or three games of the season.

ON DIAMOND—B. C. outfield of 1923 which helped defeat Holy Cross before 30,000 at Braves Field, left to right, Tony Comerford, Chuck Darling, Frank Wilson.

ON GRIDIRON—Darling and Joe McKenney, teammates at B. C. Chuck graduated in '25, McKenney two years later. Both were quarterbacks. McKenney is associate director of physical education in Boston school department.

ICE-CAPADES OF '41 RETURNS TO GARDEN FOR 4-DAY SHOW

Lois Dworschak, the "Rhythm Girl," Vera Hrubá, former Czech figure skating champion, and Belita, beautiful English ballerina, who topped the "Ice-Capades of 1941" here in December, will all return to the Boston Garden next Wednesday night when the show opens a four-day engagement.

Other favorites returning are McGowan and Mack, Dench and Stewart, Cliff and Rona Thael, Robin Lee, Boston's Al Surette, Red McCarthy and his classic ballet skating, Joe Jackson, Jr., and his bicycle act, Eric Waite, Jackson and Lyman, together with a superbly drilled skating chorus of 26 beauties.

Fate must have brought together the outstanding team of Larry Jackson and Ernie Lyman. Both were born and raised in Seattle, Wash., but didn't meet until they crossed each other's paths in Hollywood in 1938. Jackson was engaged in feature roles in Hollywood skating pictures, and Lyman was working with Sonja Henie's ice show. They met and decided to combine their talents.

After weeks of rehearsing they worked out comedy routines that have catapulted them into the top list of comedy skaters. One of their funniest routines is based on the old vaudeville turn of a pair of rubes, dressed for a big day in the city.

DARLING DIES; 'BEST B.C. BACK IN HISTORY'

mention a few. Despite this, he always stood out. It's easy to remember him in action, often kicking off and then going down the field to tackle the receiver, passing accurately, carrying, unstoppable at times. Last, you think time has made Chuck's prowess loom overlarge to the writer, read what a former B. C. captain said today.

"Chuck Darling was the best backfield man ever to play for Boston College," said Bill Krellier of Cambridge, 1922 fullback and captain and himself a B. C. all-time great. "He was a kicker, runner and passer and even though we didn't toss the ball around as much then as now, Chuck passed flawlessly."

"He was the best pal I ever had, and our friendship had grown in the years since graduation."

Darling had many fine baseball teammates, too, like Eddie Phillips, Harry Mulveney, Frank McCrehan, Gus Whalen, Sonny Foley, Jimmy Kelly and others.

Chuck was a member of the Eagle nine which beat Owen Carroll and Holy Cross at Braves Field before 30,000 persons on June 17 of 1923, a game that set an all-time New England collegiate record for attendance and thrills.

UNORTHODOX KICKER

Jack Heaphy, All-American center at Boston College in the early 20s and a teammate of Darling's, spoke at length of Chuck today.

Heaphy's words were typical of those uttered by dozens of former B. C. athletes who knew and liked the great football and baseball player, and staunch student.

"Chuck Darling was as fine a man as anyone could ever want to meet," said Heaphy. "He was a high-ranking student, and a really great football player."

"Chuck ran from the left half-back position most of the time, and certainly was a triple threat worthy of being ranked with any of his day."

"He was a first-class passer, ball carrier and kicker. Chuck was an unorthodox kicker, crossing his kicking foot from side to side rather than in the usual straight-away snap motion, but he got wonderful results, and should be ranked with Jimmy Fitzpatrick among B. C. immortals as a punter."

FAST DOWN FIELD
"He was fast down the field too, and after just one year when the broken ankle suffered in the Baylor game kept him idle, he was very durable, playing most of the time."

"It was a great pleasure to know him as a teammate, and in later years as a friend. I hadn't seen very much of him during the last few years, but every time we did meet we had most enjoyable talks."

"Boston College has lost a very loyal alumnus, and all of us who knew him have lost a true friend."

'All' Ring Champ From Buffalo Fights Here

Lester McGowan of Buffalo, 118 pound All-America boxing champion, returned to Boston this morning to put the finishing touches on his training for his special bout with Orlando Fantl of Lynn at the Garden next Monday night.

McGowan, an apple-cheeked youngster, was the pet of the old timers who sat in on the All-Americans. He fainted, caught punches in mid-air and showed a lot of the fine art of boxing when the old boys hadn't seen for years. The kid loves to fight, too, slashing back with both hands when stung by a punch. And the Irish-American A. A. has matched him with a boy who can sting him in Fantl, himself an Eastern All-America champion.

The bout is a special feature of the tri-city championships, which find boxers from Boston appearing against the elite of Philadelphia and Cleveland.

Ollie Downs and his brother, Johnny, who won the National A. A. U. flyweight title in Mechanics Building back in 1914, will be in charge of the Cleveland team, every one of whose members is a Golden Gloves champion. Francis Leonard of Taunton and Al Sforza, Boston, will be the local representatives in the featherweight division.

BRUINS WRITE NEW RECORD IN N. H. L. BOOK

Schmidt Inspires Team From Bench

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—The story behind the story of the Bruins 5-3 triumph over the Rangers here is Milton Schmidt, the flying center, who had no part in the pageant as the Rossens wrote a new record into the books.

GIANTS, YANKS TO ABANDON BROADCASTS

By SID MERCER

NEW YORK, Feb. 14—Plans to continue broadcasting of baseball games from the Polo Grounds and Yankee Stadium are being abandoned, and there is no certainty that the Dodgers will be aired from Ebbets Field next season.

Demand of the baseball people and the radio stations have skyrocketed the price of these broadcasts to a point where sponsors have thrown up their hands.

No progress has been made in negotiations between sponsors and stations for the last few weeks because the baseball clubs, clinging to their "take it or leave it" attitude and do not seem to care whether the broadcasts continue.

Head men of the Giants and Yankees are convinced that radio costs them more customers than it brings in. Unless sponsors are willing to contribute fees that will more than offset that attendance deficit, the clubs prefer to sell their games through other means.

Horace Stoneham, president, and Leo Bondy, vice-president of the Giants, are in Florida and will be there a month. Bondy has been the active representative of the two New York clubs in radio negotiations.

Matters have been left in the hands of Ed Barrow of the Yankees. He does not believe that broadcasting has helped attendance at the stadium. The two clubs stand together in this belief.

Fees demanded for next season are considered exorbitant by sponsors who have previously supported local broadcasts. The two clubs admit the price is high, but say they are not going to give away their radio privileges, and can afford to take that stand because they believe airing the games has slowed up business at their box offices.

The difficulty of grouping sponsors and dividing the commercial time between them is another handicap. It is said that none of the sponsors for games at the two Manhattan parks for the last two years is considering renewal under any circumstances.

They feel they did not get their money's worth, and even at much smaller fees they are not interested this year.

When the games were first aired in 1939 the price to sponsors was believed to be $150,000, evenly split between the two clubs. It may have been reduced last year, but the clubs are holding out now for far more than any sponsors or group of sponsors are willing to pay.

Milt, in fact, was on the bench, crippled by a "Charley horse" in his right thigh and on the point of tears because he was not out there on the ice spear-heading the attacks of the Sauerkraut Line accompanied by Bob Bauer and Woody Dumart.

Bauer and Dumart agreed to do something to solace their saddened neighbor from Kitchener, Ont. A noisy crowd of 16,000 will testify that they did.

Bauer chipped in with the goal which put the B's back in the ball game after the Blueshirts had assumed a 2-0 lead; Dumart drove home the victory goal from 35 feet away and added the fifth and final tally to take the threat out of the last-minute bids of the Blueshirts.

CANADIENS NEXT

Their efforts were chiefly responsible for the Bruins setting a new N. H. L. record of 20 straight-without-a-defeat. This removed the mark, set a season back by the Rangers, of 19 straight. Of course there is some complaint over all this by the Blueshirts who point out that they won 14 and tied five in their streak; that the Bruins had only 12 wins and seven ties.

LOOKS LIKE A BREEZE

Pilot Art Ross left for Detroit, to attend a tribute to Red Wings' Manager Jack Adams. He gave his charges a slap on the back and orders to keep going before departing.

He did not tell this to his athletes. He doesn't want them to get chesty. But he told the hockey writers that this was the greatest team of all time and that if it does lose a game from here in it will only be by accident.

Schmidt is expected back tomorrow night. If the B's gave the Rangers such a hammering without him it doesn't seem possible they'll lose to Canadiens. Canadiens have been bothersome all season but they'll have to catch Les B's in a deep slump to stop them.

TERRIBLE TERRY BATTLES

The game here was a humdinger from start to finish. It was marked by some fierce checking. Yet the Bruins came away without injury and started for Montreal in good health.

Referee Bill Stewart handled the contest in expert fashion, dishing out but three penalties and stopping two impending fights before they reached the serious stage. Terrible Terry Reardon was participant in both skirmishes.

Reardon was not, however, a participant in the scoring which was dominated by Bill Cowley and Dumart. Each chipped in with a pair of important goals.

Mae Colville and Stan Smith started the Rangers off with a 2-0 lead. Both scored when the Bruins, tense at the start, let them get in alone on Brinsmead.

GIFT GOAL FOR RANGERS

Then Bauer hooked onto the puck as it nestled against the backboards, circled out and whipped a low liner into the N. Y. strings. This made it 2-1 at the close of the first period and Cowley poked home a short putt at 14:33 of the second period to tie the count. Clapper shot from the blue line on this play and was Eddie Wiseman captured the rebound. Wiseman brought Kerr out of his cage before passing to Cowley who had an open net.

Then Dumart broke up the game at 13:20 of the third frame with his 25-foot whistler which flew under Kerr's arm and nearly ripped the strings away. Cowley added another on a pass from Roy Conacher, and Dumart made it 5-2 at 18:16.

Coasting home, the Bruins awarded the gangling Rangers a gift goal 14 seconds from the finish.

IT'S A GOAL—Bobby Bauer, Bruins, skates away after shooting a sizzling drive into the Ranger nets in first period, with Goalie Dave Kerr on the ice after making valiant bid to halt flying disc. Babe Pratt skates in too late to aid the goalie. Bruins won, 5-3, to set new National Hockey League record of games without defeat—a string of 20—and still streaking.

Red Sox May Have Trouble Signing Outfielder Spence

By HERR FINNEGAN

Although the Red Sox Sarasota-bound special does not leave the South Station until one week from tomorrow, the official pilgrimage got under way today with the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Doherty by automobile for the Sox training quarters.

The Sox public relations counsel will join Eddie Collins in the Florida resort and spend a few days with the Sox general manager before the latter returns to Boston. Collins will return to his Fenway Park office next Thursday.

Phil Troy, traveling secretary of the Sox, will leave by train tomorrow morning to see that hotel and other accommodations are in readiness for the squad, the first detachment of which will start practice on Feb. 24. Accompanying Troy will be John Corcoran of Cambridge and George Murphy of Lewiston. Both are regular training camp patrons, though Murphy usually goes with the Bees.

That will leave Pitching Coach Frank Shellenback in charge of the Red Sox special which leaves the South Station at 3:30 a. m. one week from tomorrow. Tommy Day, Hughey Duffey and Trainer Win Green also will be with Shellenback, although, strange to say, there won't be a ball player in the party. In fact the only player picked up along the entire route will be Mickey Harris. The young Sox left hander will board the train at New York city.

Royal rooters on next week's Sox special will be Dick Baker and the apt Col. Thomas H. Donahue, both of whom made the trip a year ago. Nothing has been heard as yet from Arthur Murphy of Milton and Mayor John C. Carr of Medford, but they are expected to be along, if not with the regular party, then with the March 1 group which includes Ray Grady, Connie Driscoll and Connie, Jr., Joe Geary, and Thad Barrows.

Wes Palmer of Rochester, N. H., regular, will drive down next week with John Doherty, assistant Sox trainer, who was presented a traveling bag at a farewell party given him by his cronies last night at Cocoonet Grove.

Payne Field, Sarasota, where the Sox train, is in excellent condition. Sox groundkeeper Roland Robinson spent a month down there recently. He had the infield entirely dug up, and spread the dirt on the outfield. Then he got a carload of the famous Lakeland clay and filled in the infield. He topped it with another carload of loam. The infield is being rolled and watered every day, and the foot-

Troy will take along another 20 dozen tomorrow. Baseballs run into money in the southland because most of the diamonds are so rough the balls cannot be used again except for fielding practice. In fact the entire trip runs into money. Troy figures it will cost the club about $25,000 before it returns North, but most of that should be picked up during the long exhibition series with the world champion Cincinnati Reds, which includes three games in Havana.

Eddie Doherty announced before he left that Tex Hughson, right-handed rookie pitcher from Louisville, had seen the light and signed on the dotted line. That leaves three Sox unsigned—Bobby Doerr, Ted Williams and Stanley Spence.

was a sign there in French. But a thoughtful American, a reconnaissance officer or perhaps one of those not too popular M. P.'s (not Members of Parliament. Military Police), had translated it underneath in chalk.

It read: "Beware—the enemy sees you."

It was, however, getting really dark now and the enemy did not see "New England's Own."

The road ran on down the hill a way and stopped, branching out into communication trenches. At the end of these, after much hailing and bumping and shushing and some extremely chic Parisian swearing on the part of the French guides, was the front line.

The Frenchmen there couldn't have been more pleased to see "New England's Own" and if they hadn't been in such a hurry to get to h-l out, it's practically certain they would have said so. With gestures.

In time and in its own quaint New England way, "New England's Own" learned that in that rather precarious game only a sucker waits to laugh at a hearty player after he has handed him the Queen of Spades. But that was to come. The Frenchman murmured "Au-revoir," not too regretfully, over their shoulders in leaving. A lonesome, desultory shell or so whined overhead to crack at the cross-roads. A machine-gun chattered savagely at the stillness.

Fritz, perhaps hearing a little more noise or sensing a little more movement than he liked, lit the wire with the white softness of Very lights.

"New England's Own" eased its packs and crawled down into its dugouts or onto firing steps, nervously fingering Chaut-Chauts and Springfield. Night shut down. The long vigil had begun.

Too Long a Vigil for Too Many

TOO LONG a vigil for too many. A few there at the Strong Point Filan and so many more later at Seichprey and Chateau Thierry and St. Mihiel and in the mists along the Meuse, when Foch and Pershing and Ludendorff put their blue checks down. So many boys, so full of life, so entitled to a chance to live, who trudged along the Chemin des Dames 22 years ago Wednesday evening.

I don't quite know why I have written this. Perhaps because I believe in my heart that if the Armies of crosses had hands so many would be raised to say on this Lincoln's birthday:

"Time is long, as we who sleep here along the Road of Our Lady know. The Kaiser is not dead, but he is one of the few who remembers it. Hitler and Mussolini and all of you must join us soon. We didn't have a chance to learn much in our short lives. But this we learned and this we, most of all, have a right to say: There is nothing so futile in the history of mankind as war. Avoid it if you can."

Supremacy in collegiate skiing circles is being challenged! A fierce duel has been raging all season between the University of New Hampshire and the Dartmouth skiers. The U. of N. H. lads won the Lake Placid meet, then topped this feat by upsetting Dartmouth at its own Carnival last week-end. But many claim that in a meet where the points are split up between a dozen teams, often the best team doesn't win.

But many claim that in a meet where the points are split up between a dozen teams, often the best team doesn't win.

If this mythical meet materialized, the two best college ski teams in the country would be competing man to man. Heroes of the hick-orys such as Charlie McLane and Bob Meservey would clash with Paul Townsend and Bobby Clark. "Twould be a thriller.
